Bond Given By O'Malley Saturday

Finger Printed Under Charge Of Tax Evasion

KANSAS CITY, April 8—(AP)—R. Emmet O'Malley, former state superintendent of insurance, indicted by a federal grand jury with T. J. Pendergast, Democratic boss, on income tax evasion charges, surrendered today and was released on $10,000 bond for appearance before Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves April 24.

He is charged with evasion of income taxes on $62,000.

O'Malley, now head of the city water department here, went through the procedure of fingerprinting and posting bond with personal composure.

O'Malley refused to talk about the charge against him, that he paid no tax on a sum which the government alleges, he received as part of a "mystery fund" in the 1935 fire rate compromise.

"I have absolutely no comment to make," he said.

With Attorneys James P. Aylward, Jerome Walsh and Terence O'Brien, O'Malley walked into the United States marshal's office, a half-smoked cigar in his hand. A warrant had not been served on him since his lawyers had said he would surrender.

During the 15-minute procedure required for fingerprinting and posting of bond, O'Malley puffed quickly at his cigar.

In answer to routine questioning, O'Malley said he is 65 years old and was born at Leavenworth, Kas., has gray hair, fair complexion and blue-gray eyes.

The fingerprinting and bond posting completed the former Missouri insurance commissioner and his attorneys walked to the office of Charles H. Thompson, United States commissioner, where Eugene Eisenman, representative of the Central Surety and Insurance Corporation posted a $10,000 surety bond.

The date set for O'Malley's appearance before Judge Reeves is the same as that set for Pendergast to appear before Judge Merrill E. Otis.

Adjourns to April 17

Meanwhile, the grand jury continued the line of investigation it has been pursuing, but adjourned after a morning session until April 17.

Send Exhibits To Exposition

The Sedalia Federation of Labor of Sedalia sponsoring The National Better Homes Exposition to be held at the Missouri State Fair coliseum, April 24-29, has received word that the Federal Housing Administration car load of exhibit material will arrive in Sedalia during this week from Seattle, Washington.

Hugh Janes, president of the Sedalia Labor Federation says that plans are moving rapidly toward the opening of the Exposition, which will find the large coliseum building colorfully decorated with scores of exhibitors, flags, home building and home re-modeling materials, as well as modern home furnishings on display.

Contracts were signed this week for the entertainment to be witnessed during the six days of unusual showing, by a committee which pre-viewed the performances of the proposed entertainers as a guarantee to the thousands expected to visit Sedalia and attend the exposition, that they will see only the highest type of quality of performers.

Mize Peters, Kansas City representative of the Federal Housing Administration from Kansas City, will be in attendance during the exposition. Mr. Peters was in Sedalia during the past week end completing plans for the co-operation of the FHA with the local sponsoring organization.

Claims Injuries In Damage Suit

A damage suit filed by Mrs. Mary V. McBrearty against the Sedalia Water Company, in the circuit court Saturday, asks for $20,000 damages.

The petition states that the plaintiff while walking on the public streets of Sedalia, caught her foot and leg in a water pipe connection and meter box, and suffered injuries. The petition does not state the location where the accident is alleged to have occurred.

Frank T. Armstrong is the local attorney for the plaintiff.

Peace Keynote For Services Easter Morn

Faithful Gather In Commemoration Of Resurrection

By The Associated Press.

Hosannahs from countless choirs rang out through all Christendom today (Sunday) as the faithful gathered to commemorate the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

In city, town and hamlet, from the great reaches of St. Peter's in Rome to humble missions in far-flung outposts, Christians marked another Easter with the special services reserved for the festival, nearly 2,000 years old.

"The tomb is empty: he is risen from the dead," the ancients said on that first Easter morn and the old, old story—yet ever new—echoed again in music and in pageant wherever men look to the cross.

The Easter-morn sunrise was to be greeted by special rites in scores of natural amphitheatres throughout the country — more and more communities having found nature-made places of worship in which to celebrate Easter.

Prayers In Troubled World

Earnest prayers for the peace that Jesus preached were said through a troubled world. War clouds shadowed Easter observance in Europe and the Far East. The Albanians, mostly non-Christians, saw Christian invaders march through the streets of their towns.

In the United States the people forgot mundane affairs as they gathered on the rim of the Grand (Please Turn to Page 11. Col. 4)

Arm Fractured When Hit By Car

Joe Dodson, 17 years old, 2222 South Missouri avenue, suffered a fracture of the right shoulder and a broken right forearm early Saturday night when a bicycle he was riding was in a collision with a car driven by Joe Meyers, 1316 East Thirteenth street.

According to an investigation made by police officers the youth was riding north on Grand avenue and Dodson was driving a 1935 coupe south, when the collision occurred at Eighteenth and Grand.

Dodson was taken to the Bothwell hospital in McLaughlin's ambulance.

Three streets in Kirksville were named for Smith, a pioneer in the city's development.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

(Editor's Note—The Brass Ring and one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round go this week to Lloyd Crow Stark, Governor of Missouri.)

ST. LOUIS, Out here in Missouri there is shaping up a Democratic Tom Dewey whom some folks think will be the man to whom both the Roosevelt and the Garner Democrats can turn in 1940.

He is Lloyd C. Stark, Governor of Missouri, but if you are familiar with the "Stark Delicious" apple which his father developed, you may have heard more of him as a nurseryman than as a politician.

On the political side, however, Lloyd Stark is now one of the foremost governors in the Middle West, and it is significant that he got that way by a campaign closely paralleling Dewey's. Where Dewey stormed the walls of Tammany, Democratic stronghold of New York, Governor Stark took on the famous Pendergast machine in Kansas City. And he has made that machine look even more sick and bedraggled than the Tammany Tiger.

Frantic Pendergast

A lot of national significance surrounds the moves of Governor Stark and his foes, one of the most important being the visit which Jim Pendergast, nephew of venerable Boss Tom Pendergast, paid to Washington at the end of last month.

Not many people knew it, but Jim Pendergast was ready to deliver Missouri's delegates at the 1940 Democratic Convention to a New Deal candidate, if Roosevelt, in turn, would call off the dogs—the dogs being the horde of G-men and income tax sleuths that has converged upon Kansas City, all sicced on the Pendergast machine by Governor Stark of Missouri.

It so happens that Roosevelt is more anxious to win control of the Democratic Convention in 1940 than to get almost any (Please Turn to Page Eight Column Four)

Milligan And Stark To Fore

Political Conjecture Relative To The Next Campaign

By Howard Flieger

JEFFERSON CITY, April 8—(AP)—Capitol conjecture tonight lifted District Attorney Maurice M. Milligan into the realm of United States senatorial possibilities for 1940.

Political oldsters here "figured" the federal attorney — who yesterday capped a career of prosecuting the T. J. Pendergast organization with an income tax evasion indictment of "the boss" himself — into next year's primary race against incumbent Harry S. Truman, good and loyal friend of Pendergast.

It was all conjecture, however, since no hint of senatorial ambitions have come from Milligan.

"He would be a natural," said one Democrat who holds an appointive job under Gov. Lloyd C. Stark.

"If fighting Pendergast is good politics in this state these days Milligan's really got it," he continued. "He was on the ground. What he did to the Pendergast organization he did right in their home town."

Such talk overlooks the oft-rumored senatorial ambitions of the governor, but those reports lately have given way to guesses that Stark's friends were looking higher than the senate — possibly toward the cabinet or even to the (Please turn to page 5 column 8)

Exonerate an Auto Driver in Death

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 8—(AP)—Coroner K. K. Kelley of Webster county today exonerated Robert A. Willier, 29, of St. Louis, in the death of Will Beard, about 57, Webster county farm worker killed on the highway west of Marshfield last night when he stepped in front of Willier's car. Willier, advertising manager for the Wabash railway, was driving home to spend Easter with his family here.

LEBANON, Mo., April 8.(AP)—William Smith, about 60, was instantly killed tonight when he was struck by an auto as he was walking on Highway 64.

Increase In Civil Service Employes

WASHINGTON, April 8—(AP)—The Civil Service commission reported today a 6,605 increase in the number of civil service employees in the executive departments during February, due primarily, it said, to additional temporary employees in the WPA. The February total was 870,767.

Although there was a personnel increase, the payroll dropped from $131,405,792 in January to $130,015,491 in February. The commission said this was caused by the fact a "large number of per-diem and per-hour employees earned less in February than in January."

Lucas Awaits Inquiry End

May Ask Court Set Aside Rate Compromise

TUCSON, Ariz., April 8.—(AP)—Ray Lucas, Missouri state insurance superintendent, said here tonight his department was awaiting adjournmtnt of a Kansas City grand jury before determining the next step in its investigation of a 1935 fire insurance rate compromise.

If the grand jury's report discloses fraud in obtaining the settlement, Lucas declared in an interview, he may ask the federal court to set aside the compromise.

T. J. Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic boss, and R. Emmet O'Malley, former Missouri insurance superintendent, have been indicted by the grand jury on charges of income tax evasion. The government charges that Pendergast received $315,000 and O'Malley $62,000 out of the $460,000 paid to the late Charles R. Street, Chicago insurance executive who negotiated the compromise, and that neither paid income taxes on the sums.

Lucas pointed out that his department filed a federal court motion in St. Louis last month for appointment of a master to conduct an accounting into Street's affairs.

"It is possible that all the information we need will be contained in the jury's report," he said. "In that event, we may ask dismissal of the motion."

The compromise provided for the return to policyholders of 20 per cent of the missions paid and later impounded when Missouri blocked an increase in fire insurance rates.

Lucas said a suit had been instituted by policyholders to recover the remaining 80 per cent, and that his department has asked the court for permission to intervene.

The state insurance department, Lucas said, "is very actively interest in the question of eight or nine million dollars involved in the settlement." An investigation was underway before the grand jury met, he declared, but the nature of future proceedings by the state agency can not yet be determined.

Point Rebuke To Violence In Albania

Threat To Peace Is Voiced In Hull Statement

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(AP)—Amid mounting official fears that a new major European crisis impends, the United States condemned today Italy's "forcible and violent invasion of Albania."

In a pointed rebuke, Secretary of State Hull, with President Roosevelt's approval, declared the Fascist assault on little Albania "violates the will of all peoples in the world that their governments shall lead them, not toward war, but along the path of peace."

He made clear, too, in a formal statement that the United States had an interest, other than on moral grounds, for, he said, that "threat to peace" affected the economic welfare of the United States as well as that of other nations.

The latest American condemnation of aggression was issued against a background of reports that led some high officials to believe the Albanian development was but a prelude to a new general European crisis.

Opinion in both the state and war departments was authoritatively represented as inclining to the view Germany was preparing to test with a thrust at Danzig—possibly next week—the new "stop Hitler" pact of Great Britain and Poland.

Without expressing a direct opinion whether Italy, in using force against Albania, had violated the 1928 Kellogg anti-war pact, Hull referred a questioner to the phrase "forcible and violent invasion." Both Italy and Albania signed or adhered to the treaty outlawing war as an instrument of national policy.

An informant said the reports which have alarmed officials here were to the effect that Germany and Italy had decided definitely (Please Turn to Page 5. Col 3)

Impose Italian Rule On The Albanians

Forces Of King Zog Flee As Tirana Taken

By Charles H. Guptill

TIRANA, Albania, April 8—(AP)—The armed forces of Fascism imposed Italian rule in Tirana tonight as thousands of soldiers pushed further into Albania to complete occupation of the country.

Fierce Albanian warriors fled before the invaders to take positions in the mountains for the guerilla warfare which is their specialty.

King Zog had gone to Greece and an hour and a half after the first Italian soldiers entered the capital. Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano came from Italy by airplane and immediately took up headquarters in the Italian legation.

It was widely reported Premier Mussolini would follow his son-in-law tomorrow. This could not be confirmed here but the Italians were on edge in expectation that Il Duce would appear.

Scores Of Planes Land

After Count Ciano arrived scores of Italian planes landed at Tirana, bringing various Fascist personages including General Guzzoni, head of the expeditionary forces in Albania, who came from Durazzo, on the coast.

Others to arrive were General Giuseppe Valle, under-secretary for air, and Umberto Klinger, head of the Italian commercial air lines.

The staff of the Italian legation, joined by officials of the German and Spanish legations, turned out to welcome the Italians.

Zef Sereggi, former Albanian minister to Rome, who has declared himself in favor of Italy, accompanied Count Ciano.

The former regent of Albania, Zhaper Yapi, was on hand at the airport with a group of Albanians to welcome Count Ciano "in the name of the Albanian people."

Count Ciano donated 100,000 lire (about $5,000) to the poor of Tirana shortly after installing himself at the Italian legation.

Tirana had undergone a night of terror.

Gendarmes fired continuously to scare away looters, some of whom earlier had sacked the vacated royal palace.

United States Minister Hugh G. Grant sheltered the American colony yesterday and last night in the American legation.

Fascist forces were in command of the principal points along the whole 170-mile coast.

ROME, April 9.—(Sunday)—(AP)—A provisional government was set up today at Tirana, capital of conquered Albania, for the purpose of accepting Italian rule and Premier Mussolini was reported planning to fly there to proclaim the ancient kingdom a part of his fascist empire.

The first act of the new government was to advise all Albanians to accept Italian occupation and to refrain from resisting the Fascist forces who had virtually completed domination of the diminutive Balkan state.

Fascists said Il Duce probably would fly Monday to Tirana to proclaim Italian rule. Count Galeazzo Ciano, his foreign minister-son-in-law, preceded him yesterday to take care of the preliminaries.

Ahead of Ciano, an Italian army of occupation had marched unresisted into the city.

King Zog In Exile

King Zog was in exile and his handful of troops was scattered in the hills — hills that were a province of ancient Rome 2,000 years ago and many expected would become a province of Il Duce's modern Roman empire.

The Fascist government issued an appeal from several Albanian leaders asking Vittorio Emanuele to assume the crown of Albania," a development widely construed as a sign that Mussolini would enfold Albania in his spreading empire by inviting the Italian sovereign to become king of Albania.

Zog fled to Greece to join his American-Hungarian queen, Geraldine, and their three-day-old heir, Crown Prince Skander, who had crossed the frontier ahead of a dramatic flight over the mountainous roads in an Albanian Red Cross ambulance.

The Albanian king, now apparently just another of Europe's former monarchs, was reunited with his wife and son in a little tavern (Please Turn to Page 5. Col. 2)

Sedalian Invents Automatic Casket Placer Which He Has Patented

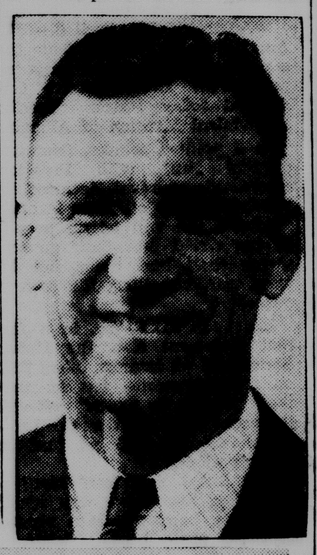

J. R. Smetana, director of the Memorial Park cemetery in Sedalia, recently completed and has patented a casket grave placer used in burials in cemeteries, and already released the patent to the Champion Co., Springfield, Ohio, under a contract which will pay him royalties.

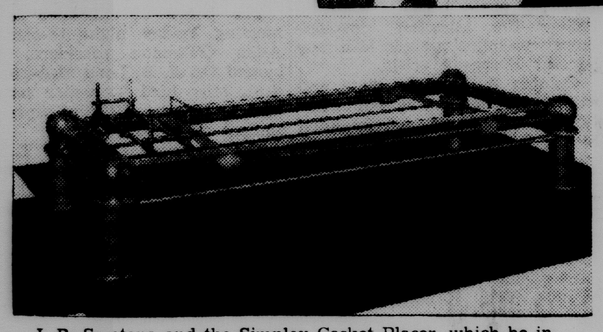

Mr. Smetana, was born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and came with his parents to the United States when five years old residing at Plattsmouth, Nebraska, where he grew to manhood. At the outbreak of the World War he enlisted in the U. S. Navy, and during the war made thirteen trips across the Atlantic as an escort to transport ships. He had three uncles in the Czech army and one in the Foreign Legion during the war.

After the war he returned to Plattsmouth and went with the Burlington Railroad, and in 1925 came to Sedalia. While visiting here he went with the Missouri Pacific shops and remained there until 1931 when he was laid off. and after which he connected with the Memorial Park cemeteries. Since that time he has been the director of the local cemetery.

During the handling of funerals he watched the pall bearers having difficulty placing the casket over the grave, especially when a heavy vault was used. He obtained the idea of an automatic placer which would handle caskets at all times whether a vault was used or not and after many months of figuring, using parts of junked automobiles, he invented the placer which is now being manufactured.

After he had perfected the model and it was used numerous times in funerals by both McLaughlin Brothers and the Gillespie Undertakers, he made a few minor changes. He obtained letters of recommendation from Philip McLaughlin and Ernest Gillespie regarding its use, had it patented and then contacted the Champion Co., who after several weeks of experiment took over the manufacturing, and sent the first placer to Mr. Smetana.

Hirth Asks A Full Purge

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 8.—(AP)—William Hirth, president of the Missouri Farmers Association, today appealed to Missourians to "purge the Democratic party of the last taint of Pendergastism."

"For several years most Missourians have been convinced that the Pendergast machine was rotten to the core . . . And now that the nauseating facts are coming out we must make a thorough job of it (the plunger)" Hirth said.

The farm leader termed the action recently initiated by Ray B. Lucas. state superintendent of insurance, in the U. S. district court in Jefferson City to compel the insurance companies to refund to policy holders impounded premiums "a matter of first importance."

"That Governor Stark will throw himself behind this effort to the fullest can be taken for granted," Hirth said.

"Not only should the bribe givers be punished along with the bribe takers, but the insurance companies themselves should be taught a lesson that will not be forgotten in Missouri in many a day."

Hirth encouraged voters to write their representatives and senators in support of Governor Stark's pending police bill in the legislature.

"Now that the rotten and ruthless machine . . . is toppling to the ground, we must exterminate the 'court house rings' that have been helping pull its chestnuts out of the fire, and on this score the police bill will be the acid test.

"To this end those who desire to support the governor in his courageous stand should lose no time not only in demanding of their representatives and senators that they uphold his hands, but that they be in their seats when the roll calls begins." Hirth said.

"There isn't a rural county in Missouri whose voters are not overwhelmingly behind Governor Stark on the police issue, and therefore it is merely a question whether a rural representative or senator stands with the people and the governor, or with a corrupt political machine that is on its last legs."

Lindbergh Sails For America

CHERBOURG, France, April 8—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh sailed tonight aboard the Liner Aquitania for the United States on what friends said was a business trip.

Surrounded by French detectives, Lindbergh boarded the ship ahead of other passengers and no one was permitted near him on the liner. Mrs. Lindbergh did not accompany him.

It will be Lindbergh's first visit to the United States since 1937. Some of his business associates said his trip was connected with the prospective opening of Pan American Airways' trans-Atlantic service.

However, it was recalled here that Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, announced in January he would invite the flier to return home and report on the state of European air rearmament.

His reports on the strength of the German and Soviet Russian air fleets created widespread comment during the September crisis over Czechoslovakia.

Operatives of the Surete Nationale guarded the colonel from his Paris apartment to the Cherbourg maritime station today. His wife and their sons, Jon and Land, were believed to have remained in Paris.

Associates said Lindbergh did not expect to remain long in the United States.

High Officials Are Coming To Church Meet

State Convention To Attract Big Attendance

(By Church Reporter)

The statement has frequently been made in recent months and years that men are no longer interested in the church, that dinner clubs, lodges and other like interests have taken the cream of men away from the church.

Laymen's League

The program for the Laymen's League conference, which is the feature of the Friday afternoon and evening session of the five-day meeting of the 101st annual convention of Christian churches in Missouri April 26-30 effectively refutes that statement.

When a busy circuit judge will come from a far corner of the state to preside over the conference, when the governor of a neighboring state will leave his duties and come to deliver an address; when the governor of our own state will leave his office to be present, and when men from all over the state have made reservations in large numbers all at their own expense, it would indicate that men have not lost interest in the church.

The Laymen's League conference is only one of the many interesting features which go to make up an unusually busy program. There will be time set apart for conferences of the ministers as well as for the wives of ministers, the sessions of the state and national missionary interests will occupy large parts of two days. there will be conferences on benevolences, on religious education, the great youth session on Saturday evening when the outstanding young people of the various colleges and business and professional world, with their leaders, will come together for a banquet and conference.

Have Special Music

The music for all of the sessions will be one of the features of the convention, all of the Christian colleges being represented at the various sessions as well as the Ladies Music club and many of Sedalia's most popular artists.

The closing feature of the convention will be the communion service on Sunday afternoon, which will probably bring together one of the largest crowds ever to attend a religious meeting in Sedalia. This session will be under the direction of Rev. M. L. Riley of Windsor, with Rev. A. W. Kokendoffer, presiding.

Sunday School Lesson

Paul Preaches the Risen Christ

Text: Acts 13:16, 23-31, 38, 39; I Cor. 15-19-22.

By William E. Gilroy, D. D. Editor of Advance

This is the lesson for Easter, and from no part of the Bible—unless it be the story of the resurrection itself—could one find a more appropriate lesson for Easter than in the writings of Paul.

Paul's whole faith and purpose centered around the strong conviction that Jesus, the Lord of love and the Master of his life, was not dead but living. He claimed that, in addition to those who had seen the risen Lord, he himself had beheld Him "as one born out of due season."

Why was this fact of the resurrection so important to Paul? Why should the love of Christ, from which Paul said nothing could separate him, not have been for Paul a sufficient motive, apart altogether from the question of the resurrection? I think the answer is found in the fact that the resurrection was, for Paul, the great evidence of the conquering power of love.

Paul was not engaged in a losing cause. He saw in the world the great struggle between the forces of unrighteousness and truth. Jesus Christ was the supreme leader in this battle of love against hate, or right against wrong, as He was the supreme evealer of the eternal love of God which for Paul was at the center and soul of all things and in the goal of all human destiny.

Without the ressurection there was no assurance that these forces of love and symbol of the conquest of life over death, of love over hate, of right over wrong, were the first fruits of the ressurection.

It is not easy to fight in a losing cause, especially if one has the assurance of permanent defeat. One may lose a battle or give his life bravely and willingly in battle, if he knows that his is the cause that will ultimately triumph. Paul's faith in the eternal power of love and in the eternal right of justice would probably have been asked if he had not believed that these things were stronger than evil and that they would prevail. The resurrection of Jesus was the symbol and the proof of this triumph of right.

It was this that Paul meant when he said, "If we have only hoped in Christ in this life, we are of all men most pitiable." What is noble about suffering and sacrifice if it is all to no avail? It was not at all a matter of living a right life and doing good in the hope of a certain reward. It was rather a question of the power of right itself.

Has Paul's faith in the resurrection been vindicated in history? Would it have been possible for the Church to have lived and achieved what it has accomplished if there had not been plain assurance that the Christ, in whom men have placed their faith, is living and not dead?

It is this conviction that has been the power and strength of the Church, as it was the power and strength of Paul. Christians are not following a Christ who is dead and gone, but a Christ of the living present who is still leading on.

Sunday School Council Meets

The State Convention of the Missouri Church and Sunday School Council will be held in three sections this year to give persons an opportunity to attend at the least expense. The same program will be put on at all places.

School of the Ozarks, Hollister, May 7, 8, and 9.
St. Joseph, May 10 and 11.
Kirksville, May 12 and 13.

The convention is planned for workers in the church and Sunday school, the public schools and other character building agencies. The program will contain mass sessions, educational exhibits, music, pageantry, and drama. Special conferences will be held for ministers, for superintendents, for children's workers, for young people's workers, and for adult workers and for leaders. Pettis county possibly will be well represented at Hollister on May 7, 8, and 9.

Fellowship of Prayer

Easter Assurance

Easter Day, April 9 Did not our hearts burn within us, while he talked with us by the way . . . ? Read Luke 24:13-32

"If a man die shall he live again?" Life is haunted by the sense of incompleteness — always — as if some last assurance were needed to comfort us in our sorrows, complete our gladnesses, confirm us in our duties, and balance, finally and justly, the unequal scales of life. Easter is that assurance; not in the day alone, not even alone in what it commemorates, but in the sovereign necessity to which the Resurrection is the answer.

"Thou wilt not leave us in the dust;
Thou madest man, he knows not why;
He thinks he was not made to die,
And Thou hast made him; Thou art just."

This is the secret of the glowing heart. The journey of life can not overtire us if it leads toward that bright terminal. And when it is "toward evening and the day is far spent," faith sees a dawn beyond the hills of time as the Lord of Easter talks with us by the way.

Prayer: Almighty God, Who hast brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, make us also in faith and hope, partakers of His victory. As we walk the brief and often shadowed ways of our journeys through the years, may our hearts glow within us because the Lord of Life and Love is our comrade, and may there be for us light at eventide because He has entered the low chambers of our souls. Through the years, may our hearts glow within us because the Lord of Life and Love is our comrade, and may there be for us light at eventide because He has entered the low chambers of our souls. Through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Revival Series To End Today

(by Church Reporter)

Revival services at the First Baptist church will close today.

The sermon subject discussed by the pastor, R. W. Leazer, Friday night, was the "Wounds of Jesus." He discussed the question as to why those wounds were detained in the resurrection body, and answered it by saying it was for a testimony to the disciples that they might believe Jesus was truly resurrected from the dead. They were detained for use in Heaven as the eternal theme and wonder of the angels. They are used in intercession. These wounds become the arteries in behalf of needy men. The pastor also pointed out that the wounds in the hand will be the accusers of the enemies of God at the second coming of Christ.

Services today have been arranged in keeping with the season. The pastor will preach on the subject, "He is Risen" The revival services will be concluded Sunday night with a great evangelistic campaign followed by a Baptism service. Bro. Geo. Reynolds will be in charge of the music of all the services during the day.

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE THIS EASTER
SUNDAY

It is for every man to make his own happiness; to find in religion the particular kind of solace, inspiration, and peace which his own soul requires. It matters little that one man's interpretation of belief differs from another: it matters much, only that he believe with conviction. He, Himself—the Great Teacher, would wish that every man take from his words whatever meaning he may require to help him live a better life, and to do more, happily, for his fellow-man.

We reaffirm our belief in Sedalia and mankind with the sincere appreciation of the privilege of furnishing Sedalia with the best water in the state. Are you making this service available to your family?

Easter Sunday is one of the Holiest Days in all the year. Let it shed its blessing on you and those you love. Feel the soul-filling satisfaction of the Full Beauty of the occasion in the church of your choice.

Col. E. R. Bradley's Kentucky Derby Nominee May Not Run

Benefactor, 3-Year-Old, Has Swelling In Left Foreleg

Col. Bradley Alone Must Make Decision

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 8—(AP)—There was sadness in the Bluegrass tonight over prospects of another Kentucky Derby without a horse carrying the colors of Colonel E. R. Bradley.

Benefactor, the colonel's only nominee for the nation's three-year-old thoroughbred classic, has a swelling in the left foreleg. It was not believed serious by those close to the Idle Hour farm but enough probably to prohibit heavy training needed to prepare the Blue Larkspur colt for the Derby, May 6.

The colonel alone is to decide what is what. He and Barry Shannon, manager of his bluegrass acres, are due from Palm Beach, Fla., Tuesday and shortly after the verdict for Benefactor is expected.

The sadness chiefly is among the boys who bravely wager $2 at the pari-mutuels. These boys supply the heavy betting on a Bradley Derby horse. They have confidence that when the colonel sends a colt to the post he's "got something and is ready for the test."

The colonel has kept faith with this great throng of wagers four times. His Behave Yourself came through to win in 1921, then Bubbling Over in 1926, Burgo King in 1932 and Broker's Tip in 1933.

Since the 1933 race things have not been so happy with the Bradley fans, as his colors have not been on a serious contender since. Last year he didn't have an entry.

The Blue Larkspur colt started five races in 1938 as a two-year-old, winning three and finishing second in another. He was out of the money in the Belmont Futurity but finished ahead of Technician, now rated in the books as one of the stronger contenders.

P. C. A. A. Track Meet April 15

The Pettis County Activity Association track meet will be held at the Smith-Cotton high school on Saturday, April 15, at which time the six county high schools and two Benton county high school track teams will vie for the honors.

Schools which are entered and are members of the association are Houstonia, Hughesville, Longwood, La Monte, Green Ridge, Smithton, Cole Camp and Lincoln, the latter two the Benton county schools.

The preliminaries will be run at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and finals in the afternoon.

Trophies will be presented to the teams placing first and second.

There will be a girls division at this meet as well as the boys track activities.

Oklahoma A.&M. Wins Triangular Track Meet

HOUSTON, Tex., April 8—(AP)—By taking second place in the closing event, the mile relay, Oklahoma A. & M. nosed out Rice Institute in a triangular track meet here today.

The cowboys finished with 65 1-2 points, one more than the Owls who won the mile relay. Texas A. & M. trailed with 40 points.

Dates Set For National PGA Golf Tournament

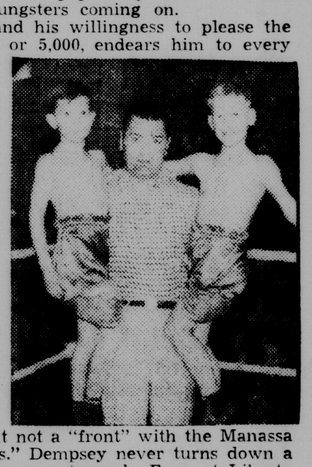

NEW YORK, April 8—(AP)—The professional golfers association today set July 9 to 15 for the National P. G. A. championship tournament. The tournament will be played at Pomonok Country Club, Flushing, Long Island, about three miles from the World's Fair.

Sport Scraps

THE ever increasing popularity of Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, was well displayed in his visit to Sedalia last Thursday when he acted as "third man" in the ring during the B. P. O. Elks wrestling exhibition. It is not hard to understand why Dempsey holds his popularity both with the adult athletic fans and the youngsters coming on.

His wonderful personality and his willingness to please the crowd, whether it numbers 100 or 5,000, endears him to every one. Dempsey never was a staller "in the ring," and will always be one to discourage those who persistently "lay down" whether in wrestling or boxing.

Dempsey's name will always be among those as a world favorite in sports. He is another Babe Ruth, and probably there is none other than Dempsey who has carried his popularity as long as Dempsey after leaving his sport activity, less it be the great John L. Sullivan, who held the heavyweight title back in 1889 until 1892. Sullivan's name has and always will be on the lips of fight fans for many years to come. Dempsey is another Sullivan in popularity.

He loves children, and this it not a "front" with the Manassa Mauler, as it is with some "idols." Dempsey never turns down a boy or an adult when they seek an autograph. Even at Liberty Park when the two "skeeterweights" battled, he requested his picture with the boys so he could have it sent to his two little daughters, Joan 5, and Barbara 2, in New York. He retired from the autograph seekers long enough to get the pictures snapped, then returned to start getting the writer's cramps.

THE champion praised Ralph Olsen, Jr., and Glenn Harms, the two nine and ten-year-old amateur boxers for their interest in the sport. "Boys like these who are taken care of and given proper training turn out to be champions not only in boxing, but make wonderful citizens. They proved to the audience in their little bout what it means to have 'your heart in your work.' I was very glad to have my picture snapped with these boys and I most certainly desire one for my two little girls," Dempsey said.

May it be said the B. P. O. Elks wrestling committee headed by Jack L. Jolly as chairman, did some fine work and are to be complimented on their endeavor to bring Dempsey to Sedalia. By the names of the wrestlers who were to appear and did appear, they could forsee nothing like what occurred in the wrestling matches.

The wrestlers are rated as "top-notchers," but it was evident they decided to reap their wages from Dempsey's popularity and not by any endeavor on their part.

Thus the committee henceforth should and must demand of promoters who make the matches, that nothing like what was seen here last week ever occurs again. Sedalia and Central Missouri fans want more than just "grunt and groans." Action is what they desire.

RAY Rayl, Smith-Cotton's Tiger track man, gave the 880-yard men, the milers, and the 440 runners something to think about in the Class A high school competition in Missouri.

Rayl a week ago at the University of Missouri track meet took the 880-yard run in 2:06:4 to make a good showing and incidentally beat the M. I. A. A. track time made the Friday before.

Coach Obermiller in talking about Rayl Saturday said with weather being warm the outdoor runs by Rayl should be better. He should be able to run the 880 in 2.03, and do the mile in 4:40. The young runner is being watched by several college track coaches with the idea of obtaining him for their own material in time to come.

Wadleigh In Spring Football Practice

Basketball Team Honored

George Edwards And C. L. Brewer of M. U. Special Guests

Green Ridge merchants and basketball fans, Friday night, were hosts at a banquet held at the Presbyterian church in Green Ridge, honoring the high school basketball team and its coach "Pete" Peterson. More than seventy basketball enthusiasts attended the gathering, at which Coach George Edwards, basketball coach at the University of Missouri and Chester L. Brewer, head of the Physical Education department at the university, were special guests.

Coach Peterson and his basketteers completed the 1938-39 season undefeated in their conference and with a total of 25 victories out of the thirty games they played, a record of which any coach, or school and community should be proud. Along with their victories they won five beautiful trophies including the championship of the P. C. A. A. outdoor season, first in the P. C. A. A. tournament, consolation in the "C" club tournament at Fayette, Missouri, consolation in the Clinton tournament and third in the Smithton tournament.

L. L. Ream, toastmaster, introduced George Murphy, a member of the Green Ridge board of education, an old school mate of Coach Edwards, and he in turn introduced Coach Edwards and Mr. Brewer.

Coach Edwards gave an interesting account of the development of basketball and emphasized the importance of athletics as a tool in teaching some of our greatest problems in education.

Mr. Brewer emphasized the importance of the part that athletics and a coach plays in moulding character in our young boys and girls. Mr. Brewer stated: "I am not much interested in the character of the English or Science teacher of my boy, for they work with him for only a short time each day, but I am deeply interested in the character that the coach of my boy posses for through his long hours of toil and association I feel that he is going to have much influence on the character of him."

Other speakers of the evening included Wilfred Ackers, who expressed the appreciation of the citizens of Green Ridge for the fine records of the basketball team and coach. Mr. Swinney, superintendent of the Green Ridge high school, again emphasized the importance of athletics in our educational program. Rev. Moore, pastor of the Presbyterian church, told of the need for an improvement in our local school plant in order to carry on the high standard of work which we now have.

The banquet was prepared by the H. H. H. Class of the Presbyterian church.

Restrictions On Black Bass

WASHINGTON, April 8—(AP)—The federal fisheries bureau pleaded with the states today to save black bass for American sportsmen by tightening restrictions.

The number of this game fish, the bureau said, is bound to "decrease steadily" unless their spawning periods are protected more rigorously by closed seasons.

The bureau predicted that trout would be plentiful this fishing season. It said a record 160,000,000 young fish of species had been stocked in the nation's streams since last season.

Smith-Cotton's Tiger Tennis Squad

These boys will represent the Smith-Cotton high school in the various tennis tournaments being held this spring in connection with the track meets which the track squad from Sedalia is participating in.

The Tigers are being coached by Burney Morriss, who feels the boys will make excellent showings wherever they enter into competition. The members of the squad with Mr. Morris at the left, are: Jack Ross, Cecil Hill, Jack Wood, Lynn Schilb, Melvin Winrod, Wesley Dolginoff and Elliott McElroy.

The team will enter the William Jewell meet at Liberty next Friday and also the conference meet at Hannibal April 28.

S-C Tigers To Liberty

Smith-Cotton's Tiger track team will enter into the William Jewell College track meet at Liberty, Mo., this Friday at which time three classes will participate. Class A schools, Class B schools and Class C schools. The Sedalia team is rated in the Class A group.

Having placed well in the Indoor meet at Columbia last week and the Sedalia boys giving a good account of themselves. Coach Jimmy Obermiller, of the Tigers, is confident his squad of ten will come through at Liberty and have an excellent chance of being the headlining team.

Much dependence is being placed in Ray Rayl, one of the fastest on the squad in running. Rayl, expected to take charge of several events, will probably be elected captain of the team for the Jewell meet.

Sedalia boys although deeply interested in the college track gatherings have their eyes turned to more important laurels to them, the Central Missouri Conference meet to be held at Hannibal on April 28.

In the football and basketball competition the Tigers lagged far behind the leaders and were unable to make much of a showing in the first year's conference competition, but they hope to awaken the school spirit by turning in some first class results at Hannibal.

Gene Kunes In Golf Lead

ASHVILLE, N. C., April 8—(AP)—While galleries trailed around with more familiar golfing figures, silent Gene Kunes established a competitive scoring record and assumed command of the $5,000 "land of the sky" open tournament today.

Kunes, a native of Erie, Pa., Canadian open champion of 1935, breezed through the second round with a spectacular 67, five shots under par and a 36-hole total of 138 that put him out in front of his fellow professionals by three shots.

In overhauling the opening leaders, Dick Metz and Johnny Bulla, a pair of Chicago professionals, Kunes played precision golf down the fairways and fired his irons dead to the pins.

Metz and Bulla played exceptionally good golf to post 71s, one under par, and at the end of the day's sharpshooting they were three blows back of the front-running Kunes with 141s.

Merchants To Open Season

New 'Outfits' For Sedalia's First Semi-Pro Baseball Club

The Sedalia Merchants will open their baseball season at home on Sunday, May 7 playing a highly rated nine from St. Louis. However their season will be opened the latter part of the month in playing several out-of-town games before making their bow to the Sedalia sport fans.

Manager Vincent Siegel is well pleased with the results of the few practices the team recruits have enjoyed during these very few fair days. He feels however he is not fully ready to begin a "wholesale" weeding out due to the inactivity of the players because of the declining weather conditions, but will start the elimination before the first game rolls around.

Iberia is among the first games on the Merchants out-of-town games and incidentally Seigel has started to pick the tough games early to assure himself he will have a team ready to make an appearance before the Sedalia fans which will be creditable and one which will be a drawing card to the Liberty Park baseball park.

The team will blossom out in new uniforms, which have been purchased by the various merchants in Sedalia on which will appear the names of the merchants, in the opening game at home.

Every arrangement known to give a big and successful opening is being planned by the officials of the club, one which will put the baseball spirit back into the fans of this part of the state.

Just as soon as the team is "lined out" they will enter into the National Semi-Pro Congress competition and will play in the district tournament in hopes of winning and be able to represent Sedalia in the State tournament to be held here in July.

It is possible for a plane to fly lower than a submarine has ever dived. By flying across the Dead Sea, which is approximately 1,300 feet below sea level, a plane can go lower than the limit of a dive of a submarine, which is about 300 feet below sea level.

The oldest extant Sanskrit play, "The Toy Cart," dates from the end of the second century.

Progress In 'Nat' Semi-Pro Tournaments

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 8—(AP)—Twenty-five district semi-pro baseball tournaments to be staged between June 20, and July 7, throughout the United States were approved today by the national semi-pro baseball congress.

Before June 1, approximately 700 district tournaments are to be established, Ray Dumont, president of the congress, announced. Champion clubs will qualify directly into one of the 48 state tournaments that will take place between July 8-25.

Most district events will be held four days throughout the nation, July 1-4, and each district winner will be awarded a trophy in addition to the major share of the prize money.

District appointments approved today include:

Midwest—E. A. Freeburg, Cincinnati, O., Gustav Zercher, Russell, Kan.; Bernard Pyles, Wellington Kan.; Dr. B. F. Holly, Fornfelt, Mo.; T. M. Murray, Poplar Bluff Mo.; C. A. Olson, Tekamah, Nebr., George Higgins, Peabody, Kan. E. W. Anderson, Odessa Tex.; Harry Peebles, Anthony, Kan.

Teddy Weed Wins Tropical Handicap

CORAL GABLES, Fla., April 8—(AP)—Teddy Weed, Tomara Stable's four-year-old colt with plenty of heart, drove to victory in the $10,000 added Tropical Handicap today, winning by a head in a three-horse blanket finish.

Teddy Weed came up between horses to beat Superior Farm's Bob's Boys, with J. B. Partridge's Our Ketcham another neck back.

The winner's share of the purse was $7,950. Teddy Weed ran the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:44 2-5, paying $5.10 to place and $3.70 to show. Bob's Boys refunded $12.40 and $6.70 and Our Ketcham $5.40.

Strafaci Keeps Amateur Crown

PINEHURST, N. C., April 8—(AP)—Frank Strafaci of Brooklyn, N. Y., defended his North and South amateur golf crown today by defeating Bobby Dunkelberger of High Point, N. C., one up in the 36-hole final round.

Dunkelberger, who won the French amateur title last summer, kept in the game by holeing out long putts at the 34th and 35th greens, and the players were even when they teed off at the final hole of the match.

Honey Cloud 'Nips' Challephen In Race

BOWIE, Md., April 8—(AP)—In a rousing finish so close many of the ten thousand fans thought it was a dead heat, Mrs. A. J. Abel's Honey Cloud nipped W. L. Brann's Challephen by a whisker today to win the five thousand dollar added Southern Maryland handicap.

Honey Cloud, chestnut son of High Cloud and Honey Pot, covered the mile and a sixteenth route in 1:45 3-5, one fifth of a second better than Challephen's winning time last year. He paid $6.40, $3.50 and $4.00.

B. F. Christmas' unhearlded, 12 to 1 outsider in the field of five, finished third, a length ahead of Ral Parr's Hypocrite, a 2 to 1 favorite.

Mechanics To Be Trained By The Thousands

Short Of Highly Skilled Workers On Airplanes

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(AP)—The administration is making arrangements to train thousands of aviation mechanics in high schools while pilots are being turned out in colleges to meet national defense needs.

Disclosing this today, informed officials said President Roosevelt was expected to put the program into effect this month. To carry it out, the administration proposed to give vastly augmented federal subsidies to specialized high school vocational education.

An inter-departmental committee turned to high schools as a reservoir of future mechanics after modifying radically Mr. Roosevelt's original plan, announced last fall, to depend on the National Youth Administration.

The altered arrangement calls for mere "work experience" training by the NYA, supplemented by intensive schooling for some youths at the recently—reopened naval ordance plant at Charleston, W. Va., and the New Orleans navy yard, at Algiers, La.

Without discussing actual numbers, officials said several times as many mechanics as pilots must be provided, to meet the needs of expanding army and air forces, plane factories and air lines. Congress has approved a program for training 20,000 college fliers annually.

Skilled Workers Short

Already a shortage among the top ten per cent of highly skilled workers has led to what aviation quarters termed "raids" on the personnel of various aircraft plants by other manufacturers.

By official estimates, the present 27,000 plane factory employes must be more than doubled in number to turn out the present and prospective American, British and French orders, for military planes and to meet commercial contracts.

The inter-departmental committee, headed by Oswald Ryan, of the civil aeronautics, has sought both to cope with the immediate threatened shortage and provide a future reservoir of mechanics.

For the present, the chief reliance will be on existing private schools for mechanics, and apprentice training systems of individual plants, officials indicated. The army expects its schools at Rantoul, Ill., and Denver, Colo., with embergency expansion measures, to meet its needs for "fighting mechanics" among the 40,000 men to be added to the air corps in the next two years.

For the future, much is expected from intersified training in high schools. A start already has been made. Dr. J. W. Studebaker, commissioner of education, reported in December that more than 7,000 young men were receiving aviation mechanic training directed the investigation into the state insurance compromise case, went to Richmond, Mo., his home, for the week-end.

More Witnesses Called

This morning John S. Wright, attorney for the late Paul Patton, purchaser of the Pendergast Clay County farm and on officer also of the Sanitary Service Company, was a witness before the jurors.

Other witnesses who had been called, and were on hand near the grand jury room were: Thornton Cooke, president of the Columbia National Bank, which acted as title holder in the farm deal; Lester Jordan, president of the Sanitary Service Company; W. T. Doherty, president of the Atlas Lumber Company, which sold building material to the Pendergast farm in 1936, and Phil H. McCrory, Pendergast associate in the wholesale liquor business.

Pendergast was indicted on charges of evading federal income taxes on $315,000.

The government has been investigating alleged evasion of income taxes on $460,000 paid to the late Charles R. Street, of Chicago, insurance executive who negotiated settlement of the insurance rate controversy.

Of the $460,000 allegedly collected from insurance companies, the grand jury charged that Pendergast received $315,000 in 1935 and 1936, but did not report it in his income tax returns.

Violation of the law under which Pendergast and O'Malley were indicted carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a maximum fine of $10,000 on each count.

Joseph Murphy, former Sedalian, now a deputy U. S. Marshal at Kansas City, was in charge of finger printing O'Malley.

Impose Italian Rule On The Albanians

at Florina, a Greek mountain village. It was expected the royal family would remain there until tomorrow at least before seeking a permanent refuge, possibly at Salonika, on the Greek Aegean coast.

Italians reported that Zog had taken with him "Albania's entire gold reserve" which they estimated at about $160,000.

Not Drive Deeper

The whole press, including Virginio Gayda, Fascism's chief newspaper mouthpiece, insisted Italy had no plans to drive deeper into the Balkans and especially stressed her friendship for Yugoslavia, Albania's northern neighbor.

Mussolini, it was announced, sent a special message to the Yugoslav government, delivered through the Italian minister at Belgrade, expressing the "appreciation of the Fascist government for the attitude of Yugoslavia in the present crisis of the Albanian situation."

The Yugoslav legation in Rome issued a statement saying: "The Yugoslav government is in continual contact with the Italian government," and that "the Italian government is ready to assure Yugoslav interests." The statement added:

"The desire of Yugoslavia is to see the conflict ended as soon as possible. All Yugoslav views are based on the Yugoslav-Italian accords and Yugoslavia has no thought of receding from these accords."

No mention was made of Greece Albania's southern neighbor, but there appeared to be little likelihood that Italy would move to obtain the Greek island of Corfu, valuable key to control of the Adriatic off the Albanian coast, for the present.

(Mussolini bombarded and occupied Corfu in 1924 in a dispute with Greece but was forced to withdraw by diplomatic action of foreign powers.)

Some private sources reported that Italy probably would take diplomatic steps to have Greece impound the money Zog supposedly carried off and possibly detain the exiled Albanian monarch himself.

Attack On France

The authoritative Gayda launched a vigorous attack on France for what he called "the shameful lies" published there concerning Italy's operations in Albania. These, he said, included false reports of Italian defeats and Italian atrocities.

The Fascist invaders admittedly met resistance at the start and suffered 21 killed and 97 wounded in making landings on the coast yesterday at Durazzo and Santi Quaranta.

Although extra editions of Italian newspapers proclaimed "Tirana occupied!" in their boldest type the news was received here without excitement.

In Tirana, however, Italian communiques said the populace rejoiced at the arrival of the dusty Italian columns as deliverers from Zog's rule.

Reliable Fascist circles said Italy probably would put Albania under an Italian governor although perhaps permitting Albanians a measure of local autonomy within the Fascist framework.

Official Italian advices from Tirana late tonight said Italian troops had occupied Elbasan, the mountain town 25 miles south of the capital in which King Zog and his government had spent last night before fleeing today to Greece.

The government announced the distribution of food and other necessities already had been started in Albanian regions "where the economic condition of the people is particularly precarious."

Dies In Collision Of Two Autos

PIERCE CITY, Mo., April 8.—(AP)—Walter Bradley, Jr., 21, Sarcoxie, was killed instantly tonight in a collision of two motor cars two miles east of here. His three companions, two young women and a man, escaped with minor injuries, as did the occupants of the second car.

Trooper Harvey George of the state highway patrol said the Bradley car sideswiped a car driven by Charles Williams of Cassville, then careened out of control down the highway finally overturning.

Williams was unhurt, but his son Charles, Jr., suffered a broken nose.

Glen Massey, 24, Miss Irene Wooten, 18, both of Sarcoxie, and Miss Alma Young, 22, Pierce City, were riding with Bradley. They were treated at a Sarcoxie physician's office for cuts and bruises.

Point Rebuke To Violence In Albania

to "call" as a "monumental bluff" Britain's pledge to protect the independence of Poland.

Threat To World Peace
By D. Harold Oliver

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 8—(AP)—President Roosevelt was represented today as seeing in the Italian invasion of Albania not only an "additional threat" to world peace, but a challenge to the United States to choose among three methods of combatting the Nazi-Fascist system of world trade by barter.

A White House source declared Italy's action constituted the second phase of military aggression in Europe.

It was added that, as such military and economic expansion by the dictatorships progressed, America was brought closer to deciding whether to stop world trade altogether, lower her scale of working and living conditions, or subsidize her exports.

While it was indicated the chief executive felt none of these three alternatives was acceptable under normal conditions, the view was the American people might soon have to make the decision on which to adopt in the emergency.

Stopping to talk with reporters on the way to his last swim in the Warm Springs Foundation pool before leaving tomorrow for Washington, the president said he had talked by telephone with unnamed officials in Europe on developments.

Sees Threat To Peace

He said he also talked with Secretary of State Hull and gave his full approval to Hull's statement the "forcible and violent invasion of Albania is unquestionably an additional threat to the peace of the world."

Going into detail in summing up official reaction to the Albanian seizure, the White House source declared one result of a successful military aggression by any nation or group of nations was the control of commerce of the nations taken over.

If such military domination were to keep expanding, it was said, the influence would be felt in trade all over the world for the simple reason the aggressor nations would be expanding their barter system.

Therefore, this source said, the non-barter nations were faced with three alternatives:

1—Erecting a "Chinese wall" and giving up all world trade by trying to live within themselves.

2—Lowering their own standards of living and trying to compete in world markets by reducing wages and increasing hours of work.

3—Subsidizing exports as a national policy.

The result of the first method, the president was said to feel, would be to reduce the national income because the United States and other nations in the non-barter group would be unable to export any of their surplus goods.

There was no further comment on the second method, but it was indicated this was just as objectionable as the first alternative.

As for the third, it was said the whole cost of subsidizing exports would have to be borne by the federal treasury. Once begun with half a dozen products having a strong group backing in the congress, the plan would log-roll to the point where all American products would have to be similarly aided.

Crimes And Murder Start Wide Manhunt

Officers Pursue Man Who Killed Letter Carrier

CHICKASHA, Okla., April 8—(AP)—A woman's frightened night call at a farmhouse signalled officers into action today in a rapidly developed spectacular flurry of crimes headed by a gruesome killing.

Two kidnapings and a bank robbery in Texas came to light in quick succession after discovery of the shot and stabbed body of Joe Ball, 42, Oklahoma City letter carrier, in a deep, secluded ravine off a country road north of Marlow.

Ball kidnaped on an Oklahoma City street last night with Mrs. Grace Lutke, mother of two, who told officers she was forced into Ball's car by an armed man who had been following her. Ball, standing beside his car, was compelled to enter and drive south.

The car, which had boiled dry, was halted near the ravine. Mrs. Lutke told Sheriff Jim Bond, and the kidnaper forced Ball to accompany him to the roadside and Mrs. Lutke fled.

Hears Gunfire

She said she heard Ball call out and the crack of a gun as she hurried to the home of Verlon Coffee, a quarter of a mile up the road, and told her plight. Coffee called officers.

The body, a shot through the abdomen and stabbed, was found together with evidence of a struggle.

Ball's car was abandoned north of Marloy.

A half hour or so after the shooting, Sonny Ferguson, 19, filling station attendant at Marlow, looked up to see a man enter. The caller told him his car was out of gasoline. Ferguson borrowed his employer's car and a few minutes later his employer saw the machine speeding south.

Five hours later, Ferguson, telephoned from Mineral Wells, Tex., that he had been released and that his abductor was driving the Marlow man's car.

Wide Manhunt

With that, two federal bureau of investigation agents stepped into the case as state and county officers joined with Texas in a widening hunt.

Then came the report of the holdup of the First National Bank at Graford, Tex., 19 miles from Mineral Wells, and the subsequent shooting and capture near Breckenridge, Tex., of a man identified by officers as L. C. Stockton, paroled Oklahoma convict, sought in the robbery.

A Texas officer said the car used in the robbery apparently was the one in which Ferguson was taken to Texas.

Mrs. Lutke called her anxious husband, Walter R. Lutke, an Oklahoma City office employee, from the Coffee farmhouse.

Ball is survived by his widow and two sons. He had been in the postal service at Oklahoma City 18 years. He had left a meeting of letter carriers a short time before the abduction.

Milligan And Stark To Fore

next national Democratic convention.

Not Now Candidate

Stark himself said recently he was "not now" a candidate for the senate. It has been common talk through most of his administration that a cabinet post under President Roosevelt would suit him most.

Milligan and Stark are good friends and everyone here agreed neither would step in the way of the other. Some capital bystanders thus reasoned that next summer might find Stark in the senate race and Milligan a candidate for governor. Such a combination could join forces on an "anti-Pendergast" front and make a combined appeal for votes.

Should Milligan go up against Truman next summer it would be more than a fight against Pendergastism. It probably would be a lot more personal.

Truman beat Milligan's brother, Jacob, for the senatorial nomination in 1934 with the help of the full Pendergast support. That is a score that might be settled by the primary next year.

Another Slump To Stock Market

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—The stock market toppled again today in the fastest Saturday selling session for more than 2 years as new European war dangers combined with less optimistic views of domestic business prospects to touch off liquidation in all departments.

Leaders fell 1 to more than 5 points, many to new lows since last June. Recoveries were scarce at the close.

Traders came back from their Good Friday recess generally enveloped in gloom inspired mainly by fears that when a mild rally was under way, further complicate the dangerous foreign snarls.

Heavy offerings at the opening put the ticker tape behind for a while. There was a subsequent slow-down but in the final hour dealings again speeded up and, at the finish, the recording machinery was lagging 2 minutes.

The turnover of 1,640,570 shares was the largest for the week-end since March 6, 1937. The total compared with 1,558,430 last Saturday when a mild rally was under way. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1.8 points at 41.6, a low mark since June 21, last year. The composite was down 4.2 points on the week, the most sizeable recession since March, 1938.

Among outstanding losers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, U. S. Gypsum, General Electric, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Anaconda, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Du Pont, Allied Chemical and Eastman Kodak.

Bonds relapsed with stocks, foreign dollar loans sinking to the lowest average level in about six years. Wheat futures at Chicago reflected the growing war talk by climbing 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents a bushel.

Grain Gains Over Cent A Bushel

CHICAGO, April 8.—(AP)—Gains of more than a cent a bushel advanced wheat prices today to their best level since late in January. Closing values were up 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents.

The advance, scored in nervous trade marked by the widest and quickest fluctuations in some time, reflected uneasiness over European political developments.

An upturn of 1¼ cents by all contracts during the first hour was briefly stemmed by increased selling, but the market's strength was renewed by Winnipeg quotations which were up as much as 2 cents. July wheat here reached 68¾c up 1¾ cents, and finished at 68½c to 68⅝c. to 1⅝ cents higher.
to 1⅝⅝ cents higher.

Other grains followed wheat. Corn finished ⅝ to ⅞ cent higher, May 48c, July 49⅝c; oats ⅝ cent up, May 29⅝c; soy beans unchanged to 1⅜ cent up, May 87⅞c; rye 1⅝ to 1⅞ cent up, May 42⅝c; lard 13 to 18 cents higher.

With foreign markets closed for the Easter holiday, appraisal of the Italian attack on Albania was difficult, but most traders took their cut from sharply lower securities quotations. Much of the activity here appeared to be short-covering.

The corn market, following wheat, was aided by a firmer tone in the cash market and reports that the Argentine new crop harvest was disappointing.

Trade in oats was light and quotations tagged after wheat and corn. Rye was aided by buying for millers.

Lard prices followed the grain market, closing at the session's best levels despite increased offerings.

"The Oklahoma Kid" himself! Who better than James Cagney could play the past of a two-fisted, two-gun triggerman of the early West, whose deeds, good and bad, have been stirringly recorded on film? "The Oklahoma Kid," a Warner Bros. production, opens at the Liberty Theatre on Tuesday.

Tropic Holiday, Fun Festival, with Martha Raye And Bob Burns As Bull Baiters at Uptown Today And Monday

Bob Burns, the Senator from Oklahoma Dorothy Lamour and Ray Milland, Romancers

Dorothy Lamour sings many new songs in the exotic tropic setting of "Tropic Holiday" as Ray Milland makes love to her under the Mexican moon. Bob Burns, as the senator from Oklahoma, finds himself in difficulties when his girl friend, Martha Raye, turns bull fighter de luxe. His youthful training in Arkansas comes in handy then, says the Ozark Sage, for he spent his boyhood hunting the fierce razorback hogs of his native state, and by comparison, his combat with a Mexican steer was "duck soup." Filled with beautiful girls, Tropic Holiday brings to the screen, lovely Zoe Dell Lantis, the "Theme Girl" of the San Francisco Golden Gate Exposition of 1939, currently America's most photographed woman. Second feature on the program for Sunday and Monday is "Freshman Year," a sparkling comedy of the lighter side of college life, with Dixie Dunbar, William Lundigan and Ernest Truex.

Happy Wife?

A new Carole Lombard will appear on the screen of the Liberty theater today when David Selznick's "Made For Each Other" begins its engagement there. Miss Lombard has forsaken the comedy technique that has made her famous to give a heart-rending dramatic performance in this comedy-drama of young married life, and with James Stewart as co-star makes this picture an occasion that is not to be missed by the discriminating film-goer.

The story, adapted by Jo Swerling, tells of the trials and tribulations that beset the married life of Johnny and Jane Mason, played by Carole Lombard and James Stewart. John is a promising junior-member in a New York law firm, but is obliged to struggle along on a meager salary. His mother (Lucile Watson) comes to live with them, and further complicates his life with Jane by her continual carping and complaining.

When, however, a son is born to Jane and Johnny they forget their troubles in their ecstatic happiness. Even this joy is destined not to last long. On New Year's eve the child comes down with pneumonia, and to save its life a serum must be flown from Salt Lake City. This thrilling race against death forms the climax of the picture, and by the time the child recovers the differences in the Mason household have been sufficiently ironed out to allow Jane and Johnny to start off on their long delayed honeymoon.

Charles Coburn, as Johnny's crotchety employer, and Ruth Weston, as the scheming Eunice Doolittle, add their fine characterizations to the work of the principals. John Cromwell has directed the picture in such a way as to combine all the elements to their best advantage, and has turned out a picture that moves smoothly and convincingly throughout.

Easter In America

The sound of bells, singing of hope and faith and rebirth on Easter morning, will be a welcome sound in many a tired ear.

Ears in many parts of the world are deafened by the prolonged sound of cannon-fire and the burst of bombs. In some places the very bells themselves are silenced.

Fortunate are we in the United States, whose ears are assailed by no worse than the confused murmuring of a restless and unhappy world. Here we are at least not deafened by the shattering explosions of war and hatred. And here, too, no bell is silenced.

Fortunate are we that on Easter, any believer in the Christian faith, no matter what his sect or creed, is free to go in his own way to mark the day according to his conscience.

Such freedom seems elemental to Americans, so elemental that we seldom think of it at all. Once we had reason to hope that it was so. But not today.

Today such freedom stands like a beacon light in a dark world beset with intolerance and hatred.

We believe we are right in our tolerance, so right that some day the world will return to the ideal of toleration to which we cling.

But on this Easter the world is such that only the strong can have faith in the message of rebirth and the triumph of good over evil, life over death.

It is such a world as creates Thomases, modern prototypes of the doubter who, told that his Master had arisen from the tomb, said, "Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe."

Jesus then appeared to Thomas and said," Be not faithless, but believing." And Thomas, seeing, answered, "My Lord and my God."

And Jesus answered him, "Thomas, because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed."

Those words seem spoken for today. Easter this year demands the faith that will believe, even though little enough may be seen of love and truth and life, and all too much of hatred and lies and death.

The world needs the strength, the steadfastness which can believe in life ultimately triumphant over death, good over evil, and light over darkness, even though at the moment death and evil and darkness are so painfully present.

To such faith, the bells of Easter call to Americans.

Good, Luck, Adolph!

Adolph Hitler built a new German army. He occupied the Rhineland. He annexed Austria. He seized Czechoslovakia. He twisted the tail of the British lion and pulled feathers from the plume of the Gallic rooster.

But now he is starting to work on something really hard.

Word from Germany is that he is beginning a campaign to dry up the country. Manufacturers of brandy and liquors have already been ordered to reduce the alcoholic content of their product. Wine prices, regulated by the state, have risen so high that there is less wine drinking. It is even proposed to manufacture near-beer.

Hitler, you see, is a moral man, and never smokes or drinks. He wants all the rest of the Germans to be like him.

Well, Adolf, good luck! We in the United States know something about this venture from personal experience.

The German camel already carries a backbreaking load. National prohibition in Germany looks like quite a sizeable straw.

A Letter To The Shade Of Miaro Izzo

You won't be able to read this letter, Mario Izzo, because you are dead.

But we don't entirely understand these things, and maybe there is some way you can know.

Do you know, Mario, that the people of your home town of Aliquippa, Pa., are taking up a collection to get your body removed from the potter's field, where they buried it when you died?

That's because they have been thinking about you lately, now that you are gone. That's the way people are. They are slow to give credit to the living, quick to praise the dead.

But at last they do understand, a little, that you were really a great man. They didn't realize it when you, as an elderly Italian immigrant too old to work, were sent to the poorhouse where you died. They paid you $3.60 a week.

Only a few noticed that soon after you began to receive the checks you appeared on the streets, dabbing away with a broom—slowly and not very efficiently, for you were an old man—to try to do something for the community which was paying you a pittance.

Not very many heard you when you said on receiving that first check:

"I look at it, and I think I will be an honest man with this country which has been so good to me. So I start to sweep the street. My bread it tastes sweet, and I feel like a man because I work."

You wanted "to be an honest man with this country which had been so good to you."

You make us ashamed, Mario. Many of us would not have felt that way, when we were old and had nothing, and faced nothing but the poorhouse, and $3.60 a week, and a grave in the potter's field.

Yet you were right. Even so, your country had been in some ways good to you. It had protected you, and kept you a free man able to look other men in the eye without fear. And though its provision for you when you were old and unable to work any more was pitifully meager, still it did not forget you.

Yes, we are ashamed, Mario, and we write you this letter quite humbly. For this country has been good to us, too, much better than it was to you.

And we have done so little for our country.

So They Say

Thank God the young men of America are wearing the white shirts of constructive effort and peace.—Philip C Ebeling, president of U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

We do not forget. We are preparing, we are thinking in terms of decades. Therefore we are always ready to wait, as befits a people sure of itself because it has many weapons and very strong hearts.—Benito Mussolini.

* * *

Totalitarian leadership would have plenty of trouble trying to make Fascists out of American women. They do not take kindly to philosophies which offer assurances of creature comforts without guaranteeing full freedom.—Mary Hastings Bradley, author and big game hunter.

* * *

I talked about everything I could think of that might convince him not to make further trouble—Palm Sunday, his mother, and Heaven and Hell.—Rev. Francis X. Quinn, who induced cafe bandit to abandon his New York apartment-fortress where he was engaged in gun battle with police.

Cold Shoulder

However, Jim Pendergast and Otto "Oney" Higgins, Kansas City police chief who also went to Washington, traveled up and down Pennsylvania Avenue ringing doorbells, and the nearest they ever got to the Great White Throne was Jim Farley. Moreover, no one around the throne would see them.

Attorney General Murphy, who had sent the G-men to Kansas City, remained cold and aloof. Henry Morgenthau, in charge of the income tax sleuths, was equally so. The Kansas City boys got absolutely nowhere.

Moral to this incident is twofold:

1. The Roosevelt Administration is friendly to Stark, already is aware of his potentialities as a dark horse compromise between the two branches of the Democratic Party.

2. Roosevelt is cutting loose from powerful local machines such as Tammany in New York, Pendergast in Kansas City, and Curley in Boston.

This is an important departure. For Roosevelt's victories in 1932 and 1936 were built upon the Farley technique of getting the support of, say, Boss Hague in Jersey City at election time, then staring righteously away from Jersey City between elections.

Stark Vs. Boss Tom

Governor Stark's fight with Tom Pendergast began with a quarrel over the reappointment of R. E. O'Malley, head of the state insurance department and a staunch Pendergast man. Stark refused to take orders from the Kansas City boss, issued an ultimatium that he was running his own administration, and fired O'Malley. The fight was on.

Stark has now disclosed an unsavory $447,000 insurance slush fund with which O'Malley and Pendergast were entangled, and the subsequent story, which grows more lurid day by day, has rocked the State.

During the fight, Judge Allen C. Southern instituted a grand jury investigation of gambling houses in Kansas City, and seized gambling equipment operating under the noses of Police Chief Higgins and the Pendergasts. Following this, gambling operators were naive enough to come before the court to ask the return of their equipment, and to prove that they were actual owners, showed their books.

This was a stroke of luck for the Stark forces. The court seized the books.

Gambling Profits

These showed that 80 houses in Kansas City had a take of $28,500 during a 48-day period from November 11 to December 31 last, and that withdrawals of $10,000 monthly were paid to Charles V. Carrolla and three others. Carrolla is the reputed gambling king of Kansas City who is close to W. W. Graves, Pendergast prosecuting attorney, now under indictment.

Naturally, publication of these profits brought a flood of income tax sleuths from Washington, and the henchmen of Pendergast looked to the boss for help. But when Pendergast, in turn, looked toward Washington, Washington merely nodded approvingly to Stark.

Thus encouraged, Governor Stark is now demanding that the Missouri legislature put the Kansas City police back under state control, as in St. Louis. Among other things he has shown that the 640 deadly weapons found on Kansas City criminals were weapons previously captured, but apparently given back to gangsters by the police.

Ideal Candidate

Several things about Lloyd Stark make him the ideal solution for the present dilemma in which the Democrats find themselves. He has not alienated either wing of the party. He is progressive, but not radical, has a lot of common sense qualities that appeal to conservative Democrats.

Stark's background is that of a farmer-businessman. Now 52, he operates one of the largest nurseries in the country. Farmers know him, and he also has a sound business record.

Eight years in the Navy—where he was a classmate of Roosevelt's naval aides—plus four years in the Army during the War have given Stark a decisive manner and an ability to get things done. His Administrative job as Governor has won the approval of both Democrats and Republicans.

Scotch Spender

Stark has a Scotch streak running through his make-up and a cautious-spending policy that would appeal to the Garner Democrats. At the same time he has the humanitarian viewpoint of the Rooseveltians.

The facts that he is reasonably neutral, comes from neutral territory, has not made enemies in either camp, give Stark his best chance for 1940. For it is now certain that the Democrats' best bet is to elect a middle-of-the-road dark horse, and Lloyd Stark, the Tom Dewey from Missouri, may be the man.

Note—There is no doubt that his hat is judiciously, but definitely in the ring.

It Happened In America

By L. O. Honig

When Jedediah Smith, preaching fur-trapper, came in to the Columbia and Snake rivers country of Washington he showed the Nez Perce Indians the bible and told the story of Jesus. The Indians were so fascinated by the new religion they sent four tribesmen 2,000 miles to St. Louis, on foot to obtain a copy of the bible, but were unable to secure one. When their story was learned the American Board of Missions sent Dr. Daniel Lee and Dr. Marcus Whitman to teach them. Whitman built his mission near the site of Walla Walla in 1836. For some unknown reason the Indians rose en masse in 1847, killing Dr. Whitman, his wife, and eleven others and took thirty persons captive.

Meteor crater, near Winslow, Arizona, appeared to the United States army scouts who first saw it in 1871, to be a gigantic extinct volcano, and they called it "Franklin's Hole." In the middle of a flat plain, with no sign of volcanic lava rock or ashes about it, this great natural wonder is 3 miles in circumference, measuring a mile across, and 600 feet deep. There can be no doubt it was made by a meteor and a search for it has been under way for some time. When it struck no one knows, but a tree on its rim is definitely placed at an age of 700 years, which means the meteor struck some time before, even up to 5,000 years, which scientists say is probable.

George Rappeen Smith, born in Virginia in 1804, emigrating to Missouri about 1830, in October, 1860 founded Sedalia, Missouri, the county seat of Pettis county. He named the place Sedville, for his daughter, Sarah, who was nicknamed Sadie. Coming to Pettis county with his father-in-law, General David Thompson, and 75 slaves marks the beginning of a varied adventurous career, which soon brought him distinction and success. He was a brigadier and adjutant general in the Union army during the civil war. When it became evident the Pacific railroad, being built from St. Louis to Kansas City, would miss Georgetown, where he then resided, he purchased the site of Sedalia, and began building houses. He was Sedalia's first mayor and served several terms in the state legislature. He died July 11, 1879.

Every state in the union has legalized Independence Day (Fourth of July) as a holiday. In Kansas the general statutes of 1936, Chapter 35, relating to holidays, does no include the day which commemorates the birth of the United States, but makes provision in Chapter on Negotiable Instruments, designating it as such. Federal legislation designating legal holidays applies only to District of Columbia and to the territories, includes Fourth of July.

Old Ship church, in Hingham, Massachusetts, dating from 1681, is said to be the oldest existing meeting house in the United States, in continuous use. Peter Hobart, first minister of religion in Hingham, and one of its founders in September, 1635, was born in Hingham, England, for which this famous old town was named.

Jack Oakie May Come Here For Appearance

Jack Oakie, Hollywood screen comedian and former Sedalian, will make a personal appearance here sometime in the future, if the opportunity permits. Oakie said this in replying to a letter from Ellsworth Green, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who wrote him recently inviting him to appear here.

Oakie wrote that he had no plans for going east now, as pending engagements in Hollywood were keeping him busy, but that "he hopes the opportunity will not be far off" when he will be able to come here.

Mrs. Evelyn Offield, Oakie's mother, died recently in Hollywood.

Billy Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williams, 110 South Missouri, suffered a broken left arm Friday night when he fell on the curbing at the corner of Second and Missouri.

He was taken to the Bothwell hospital where he was treated by Dr. A. L. Walters.

SERIAL STORY

'MRS. DOC'

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional.

* * *

Yesterday: Emily welcomes Alan and Eric back, thanks Eric for saving Alan from the fire. Then she tells Alan that Peterson has sent a contract and Alan says he has something to say about that later!

CHAPTER XX

ALAN hurried on up the stairs, disregarding Emily's bewilderment, her half-spoken appeals.

Yes, he told himself as he undressed, climbed into bed, he would have something very definite to say about Emily's leaving. And the sooner it was said and done, the better.

Emily did love Eric. No denying that; any fool could see it. The way she had kissed Kane, the tenderness with which she had caressed his burned hands. Her relief when she found the injury was not more serious.

They would go away; she would get her divorce—and then. Alan could not bear to think of her as another man's wife, in another man's home. What would life be for him, without her?

He had chosen Sumner, and his practice—and he had just that—and that was all. But he wanted—Emily!

His vision of her smile was blotted out by sheets of windblown rain, her eyes became as two glowing acetylene lamps . . . there was a roaring in his ears . . . shouts, screams, moans. . . . "He's so young, too." . . . A dark mass bearing down upon him, the slap of waves against the launch. . . .

Sound sleep at last drove the distorted dreams from his mind. He did not hear Emily tiptoe into the room, pull down the shades, and tuck the blankets closer about him. Nor did he feel her lips, soft against his cheek. Only the walls heard her sob—and they gave no comfort.

* * *

THE ringing of the telephone awakened him. He sat up in bed, reached for the instrument on the nearby table.

"Dr. William Peterson, New York, calling Dr. Alan Warren," the operator said.

"Just a minute, I'll call him," Emily said, on the downstairs 'phone.

"I'm awake, I'll take it here," Alan broke in. Then to the operator— "This is Dr. Warren."

"Hello, Alan! Congratulations on some fine work," he heard Peterson say a moment later. "Even the papers here in New York are making you a hero. Well, it's good advertising for the school."

"Haven't much time, sailing at midnight, but wanted you to know that your contract is safe. All you have to do is sign it, and move to St. Louis before school closes in June."

"I'm not taking the position, Dr. Peterson," Alan said.

"You're not—what!"

"I'm staying here in Sumner. My work is here." Alan spoke slowly, carefully choosing his words. "I'm sorry if I've caused you any trouble, accepting at first, and now, backing down. But I can't do it. I'm just a country doctor, Dr. Peterson. I belong here—I'm going to stay here."

"Is that absolutely final, Alan? You won't change your mind." Peterson asked.

"That's final, Doctor."

"Well . . . you know what you want to do. I had hoped though, that you'd be with us. I need you, Alan. The school needs you."

"My people need me here, more. Have a good trip, Doctor. I'll be up to see you when you return."

"Goodby, Alan. You've made your decision. Never regret it."

ALAN sang lustily in the shower, and was grinning happily as he hurried downstairs. Outdoors the sun was shining brightly. A cardinal whistled from a treetop; a few green blades of grass were pushing up through the brown bareness of the lawn. Spring almost here, Alan thought. And only a few short weeks ago, all this had been hidden by the blizzard.

Emily was waiting in the breakfast room. And Eric. Alan's grin faded.

"Hello, sleepyhead," Emily said with a laugh, as she kissed him. "Thought you'd never wake up."

"You slept the clock around, and then started on it's second trip," Eric said. "You were still dead to the world when I awoke, and left last night—and pounding your ear when I came back to say goodby."

"I guess I was pretty tired," Alan admitted. Then as the import of Eric's words struck him—"To say goodby? What do you mean?"

"Orders. Conference in St. Louis on whether we'll go on with the dam. Brass hats from Washington will all be there—to rake me over the coals.

"Farrell looked at my hands this morning, put on new dressings. He says they're coming on fine, probably won't even scar. I'm taking the noon train."

Eric leaving. Eric, carrying his broken dreams in bandaged hands, stepping out again. But it would be different this time.

"I told you yesterday I had something to say about your leaving, Emily," Alan began. "I want Eric to hear it too. It concerns both of you—all of us."

"But, Alan—I—" Emily interupted.

"Yes, I know . . . but listen to me now. It's going to be difficult to tell you, but I have to do it. Let's get it over, get it settled."

"Alan, what are you talking about?" Eric asked, almost angrily.

"About you, about Emily, about me." Alan spoke quickly, as if trying to hurry through his unpleasant task. "You love Emily. And she loves you—"

"Alan! I don't—you don't believe—"

"You may not realize it now, but you will," Alan went on, striving to keep his voice calm and even. "It will take time, but eventually you will know, what I know now—that you love Eric.

"I'm staying in Sumner. It is best that I do. I might go away, go with you to St. Louis, but the break would come sometime. It might as well be now. I have my work; I'll be all right.

"Your place is not here in Sumner," he went on, avoiding her eyes. Eric stood, silent and wondering. "This is not your world, Emily, and I've been a fool, I've been cruel, trying to make you stay in it. Here you have sickness, trouble, pain and death. You deserve something better than that.

"You are too young, too beautiful to give up the happiness that is rightfully yours. You need music, laughter, love—gaiety.

"Eric can give you these things. I can't.

"Eric is the man for you, Emily. He can give you the kind of a life you want—the kind of a life you should have. He's a fine man, a true friend, and I'm proud to have known him. He's brave, he's honorable. He'll make you happy. And that's more than I've been able to do.

"Be good to her, Eric. She's precious."

Eric nodded, solemnly. He said nothing.

"Alan, Alan, you don't know what you're saying!" Emily's voice was almost a scream.

"But I do—this is the way it should be. Break quickly. All friends. No tears. No hate." He turned to go. "Please go with Eric now, Emily. Have Herminia pack, send your things. Don't—don't be here when I come back!" His voice broke. Quickly he turned, ran from the house.

"Alan—darling—don't—don't go! Come back! You're wrong!" Emily screamed after him. But he was far down the street, walking swiftly, when she reached the door. If he heard her, he did not let on.

She stood in the doorway, tears streaming down her face. Eric's arm was around her.

"He's gone— My Alan—gone!"

'Good-Will' Tour To Warsaw

A "Good-Will" tour to Warsaw, Mo., is the outstanding event on the social calendar of the Missouri Pacific Supervisors' Club for the month of April.

Preliminary arrangements have already been made for the supervisors and their wives to journey to Warsaw on the evening of April 17th for a 7 o'clock dinner and program, and for this occasion they will have as their special guests the members of the Warsaw Chamber of Commerce and their wives.

Talent from both Warsaw and Sedalia will provide a varied program that will be educational as well as entertaining, and the supervisors and their wives are looking forward to a joyous evening with their friends and neighbors in Warsaw.

FSA Loans For Cropping Now

With Pettis County farmers prepared for this year's cropping, Oscar H. DeWolf, form security administrator supervisor at Sedalia, announces that FSA service is available for the purchase of lime and fertilizer for the seeding of land for permanent pasture and meadows.

"Emphasis is being placed upon pasture improvement in connection with the Rural Rehabilitation program because it has been found that an adequate supply of good pasture is the most economic means of producing feed for farm animals," he said. "That is why," Mr. DeWolf explained, "funds for the purchase of lime, fertilizer and seed may be included in the loan of the FSA borrower if it appears that such basic improvements are necessary to insure an adequate supply of pasture."

In most localities lime must be supplied to land to produce good growth of pasture crops. It is essential to the production of legumes, which is the basis of much pasture production. Lime is also important in the production of blue grass. Years of pasturing and cropping have depleted the supply of phosphorus, potash and nitrogen so that the addition of fertilizers is essential in a pasture improvement program.

"Such loans," Mr. DeWolf, said, "are made to either landowners or tenants. If the borrower is a tenant he must have arrangements which insure his tenure on the farm for a long enough time to assure realization of the benefits of the pasture improvement or have an agreement with the landlord for compensation for the unused portion of the improvement if he leaves the farm."

Since the benefits accruing from such improvements extend for a period of at least five years, loans for this purpose can be repaid over a five year period.

Pasture improvement, in the opinion of the Farm Security Administration, is of second importance only to the production of food for the family. Food for the family and feed for the livestock have been found to be the two most important features in the production on the farms with which the Administration is working.

Any Pettis County farm families desiring loans for pasture improvement and unable to obtain needed credit from local banks or other agencies should make application at the FSA county office as soon as possible. This office is located in the Court House at Sedalia.

Live Stock Meet Be At Columbia

Livestock raisers and feeders of Pettis County will have an opportunity to secure first hand information on recommended livestock production practices at the state-wide Feeders' Day to be held at the Missouri College of Agriculture, Columbia, on Friday, April 14, states J. U. Morris, county extension agent.

In addition to hearing talks by prominent livestock men, those who make the trip will see the results of the many winter feeding experiments being carried on by the College with livestock. Each of the lots of animals will be shown and full details of feeding and management given.

The beef cattle men attending will be shown the lots of yearling cattle fed three different rations. One group is being fed corn and cottonseed cake, silage, and legume hay. A third group is getting a ration in which corn composes half of the grain, and barley the other half with cottonseed cake, silage, and legume hay also being fed.

Then too, the visitors will see the difference between a group of choice calves wintered only on silage and hay, and a group full fed on corn, cottonseed cake, silage and legume hay.

The various lots of hogs to be shown are being fed different rations which include such feeds as low-grade wheat, winter barley, grain sorghums, and oats. Supplements used include wet and dry rendered tankage, soybean oil meal, dry skimmed milk, and alfalfa meal.

Included in the day's program will be a tour to visitors the College's sheep flocks, its horse barns, the newly established swine investifation farm, and other experimental units of the College.

According to County Agent Morris, the Feeders' Day should supply livestock raisers with answers to such questions as these: "How can I get the most returns from the feed I am growing under a changed farming system?" "What supplements work best with different grains?" "Does it pay to full-feed livestock during the winter?"

The Feeders' Day will get under way at 10 o'clock on Friday, April 14, at the Livestock Pavilion of the College.

Message Of Peace

VATICAN CITY, April 8—(AP)—Pius XII is to deliver a message of peace tomorrow as part of the joyous celebration of the resurrection on his first Easter as pontiff.

The pontiff's homily will be in Latin from St. Peter's loggia. Loud speakers will carry his voice to the crowd in the piazza below, and immediately afterward translations will be broadcast in English and other languages.

Most of the Easter services from St. Peter's will be broadcast as well, starting soon after 10 a. m. (3 a. m. CST). The broadcast of the Pope's message is scheduled to start at 11 a. m. (4 a. m. EST).

Participation by the pontiff in Easter services was revived by the late Pius XI after a 60-year period in which the tradition was not observed.

Part of the service will be in Sistine chapel.

The pope first will be invested in the Hall of Vestments with the "pluviale" which Romans call "piviale," the traditional garment symbolizing protection of a priest from evil.

At 8 a. m. (1 a.m. CST) he is to proceed to Sistine chapel for singing of the "third hour" and to receive vestments for the mass in the presence of an imposing group of ecclestiastics. During that part of the service radio listeners will hear the choir of the Benedictine monks and students from the Sacred Pontifical Institute of Music.

From Sistine chapel, the pope is to be carried on his portable throne to the basilica below at about 9 a. m. (2 a.m. CST).

Music by the Julian choir will accompany his entrance. A student choir will sing liturgical melodies.

The choir will precede the pontiff in the procession towards the altar, announced by notes of silver trumpets and the singing of Easter hallelujah music "Laudate Dominum."

The pontiff will be carried down the central aisle of the vast church between rows of uniformed Swiss, Noble and Palatine guards.

At the end of the apse he will descend from the portable throne and take his place on the pontifical throne. The mass will be celebrated by Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, archpriest of St. Peter's.

During the afternoon in St. Peter's the procession of the three Marys will be celebrated, commemorating the visit of the Virgin Mary, Mary Magdalene and Mary, the mother of James, to Christ's tomb after the resurrection.

EASTER

The Christ has risen from the grave
To give a life anew
To weaker brothers whom he sees—
To such as me and you.
He's risen as the flowers rise
From beds of earthly clay
And as they glorify the world
He brings a brighter day.

So sing Hosannas to His name—
All hail to Christ, our King;
Let's raise the voice in happy song
And join the birds that sing.
For Christ, the Lord, has risen now;
He bringeth a new day
For Christian souls who know His will
Though born of earthly clay.

Aye, sing Hosannas to His name,
Let Christ reign in each heart.
Let's find His presence in the street
Or where the rabbits start,
For omnipresent is our Lord—
Come, praise His holy name;
Come bow the head and bend the knee
Before His blessed fame.

Franklin Lee Stevenson.

We endeavor to symbolize the beauty of Easter in our service.

• Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a hostess insist on her week end guests going to church with the family Sunday morning?

2. Is it good manners for a card player to make excuses when he loses?

3. Does a really courteous and inconsiderate person always take the opposite point of view — just for the sake of argument, or to impress others with his infallible opinions?

4. Should a guest consider that his host has to go to work early the next morning when he is deciding whether to stay for "one more drink"?

5. Does a charming person make a habit of finding fault with others?

What would you do if—

The crowd wants to stop somewhere for a drink—but you never drink—

(a) Insist on going right home?

(b) Stop with the rest, and order something non-alcoholic without apologizing?

(c) Stop with them, but don't order anything?

Answers

1. No. If they aren't enthusiastic when invited, she should let them sleep.

2. No.

3. No. Though he needn't always agree.

4. Yes, guests should be considerate of their host and hostess in in the matter of staying on and on—when the next day is a work day.

5. No. Such a habit undermines charm.

KRUGON HAS HER FEELING LIKE A DIFFERENT WOMAN

Body Ravaged With Aches and Pains In Muscles and Joints; Foods Failed To Digest Properly; Had Almost Given Up Hopes of Regaining Health

"I had about given up hopes of ever regaining my health when I found KruGon," said Mrs. Anna Fewell, a well known, highly respected lady who lives at 314 N. Quincy St., Sedalia, Missouri, in a recent statement reaching the McFarland and Robinson Drug Company, 104 W. Main St., this city:

MRS. ANNA FEWELL

"For years I had been in ailing health," continued Mrs. Fewell. "My stomach simply refused to function properly and after every meal I was certain to suffer great distress with indigestion attacks, gas formation and bloating until I was miserable. It seemed that my food lay in a solid lump in the pit of my stomach without being digested. Of course this had its effect on the functioning of my bowels and constipation added to my distress. I was always taking laxatives and then many times could not get relief. I was advised to have an operation but at my age of fifty nine years I was afraid to undergo such. Poisonous impurities collected in my system settling in my joints and muscles. My shoulders pained severely and my right arm became almost useless. My weight fell from one hundred sixty pounds to one hundred ten. I would be possessed with such awful dizzy spells I would have to hold to something to keep from falling. Life was so discouraging in this condition for I was unable to do all my housework. I then began hearing so much praise for this laxative-tonic KruGon, and decided to put it to a test on my stubborn case of ill health."

"In scarcely no time it seemed that KruGon had given me full reason to believe that I was not going to be disappointed in its action," continued Mrs. Fewell. "I continued its use and am now feeling like an altogether different woman. All those dreadful aches and pains are gone form my body. My bowels are also functioning normally. My foods digest properly now and I enjoy eating without terrible distress following my meals. I have no more dizzy spells and am able to get about and do all my housework with ease. Even yet I can hardly believe the wonderful change that has been made in my health since the use of the herbal-tonic, KruGon."

KruGon is sold by the McFarland and Robinson Drug Co., 104 West Main St., this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.

Lincoln High Fashion Show

Various Scenes Under Direction Of Miss Thomas

The annual fashion show at Lincoln High school, staged in the form of various scenes, was given Friday night in the auditorium of the school. The show was under the supervision of Miss Eula Mae Thomas, instructor in home economics at the high school.

All the garments were cut, fitted and sewn at the school by the students participating.

Scene one was a "slumber party" with 25 girls modeling lounging pajamas and coats. At the opening of the scene Helen Shelton sang "Three O'clock in the Morning" as chimes were sounded on the grand piano.

Twelve girls next displayed styles in "crisp, cool cottons." The following scene entitled "Smart Silks for Tea-Time" had 18 models.

Evening Gown Scene

After an intermission five girls gave scene four, "Trim, Tailored Suits". The final setting was for dinner and evening gowns modeled by 15 girls.

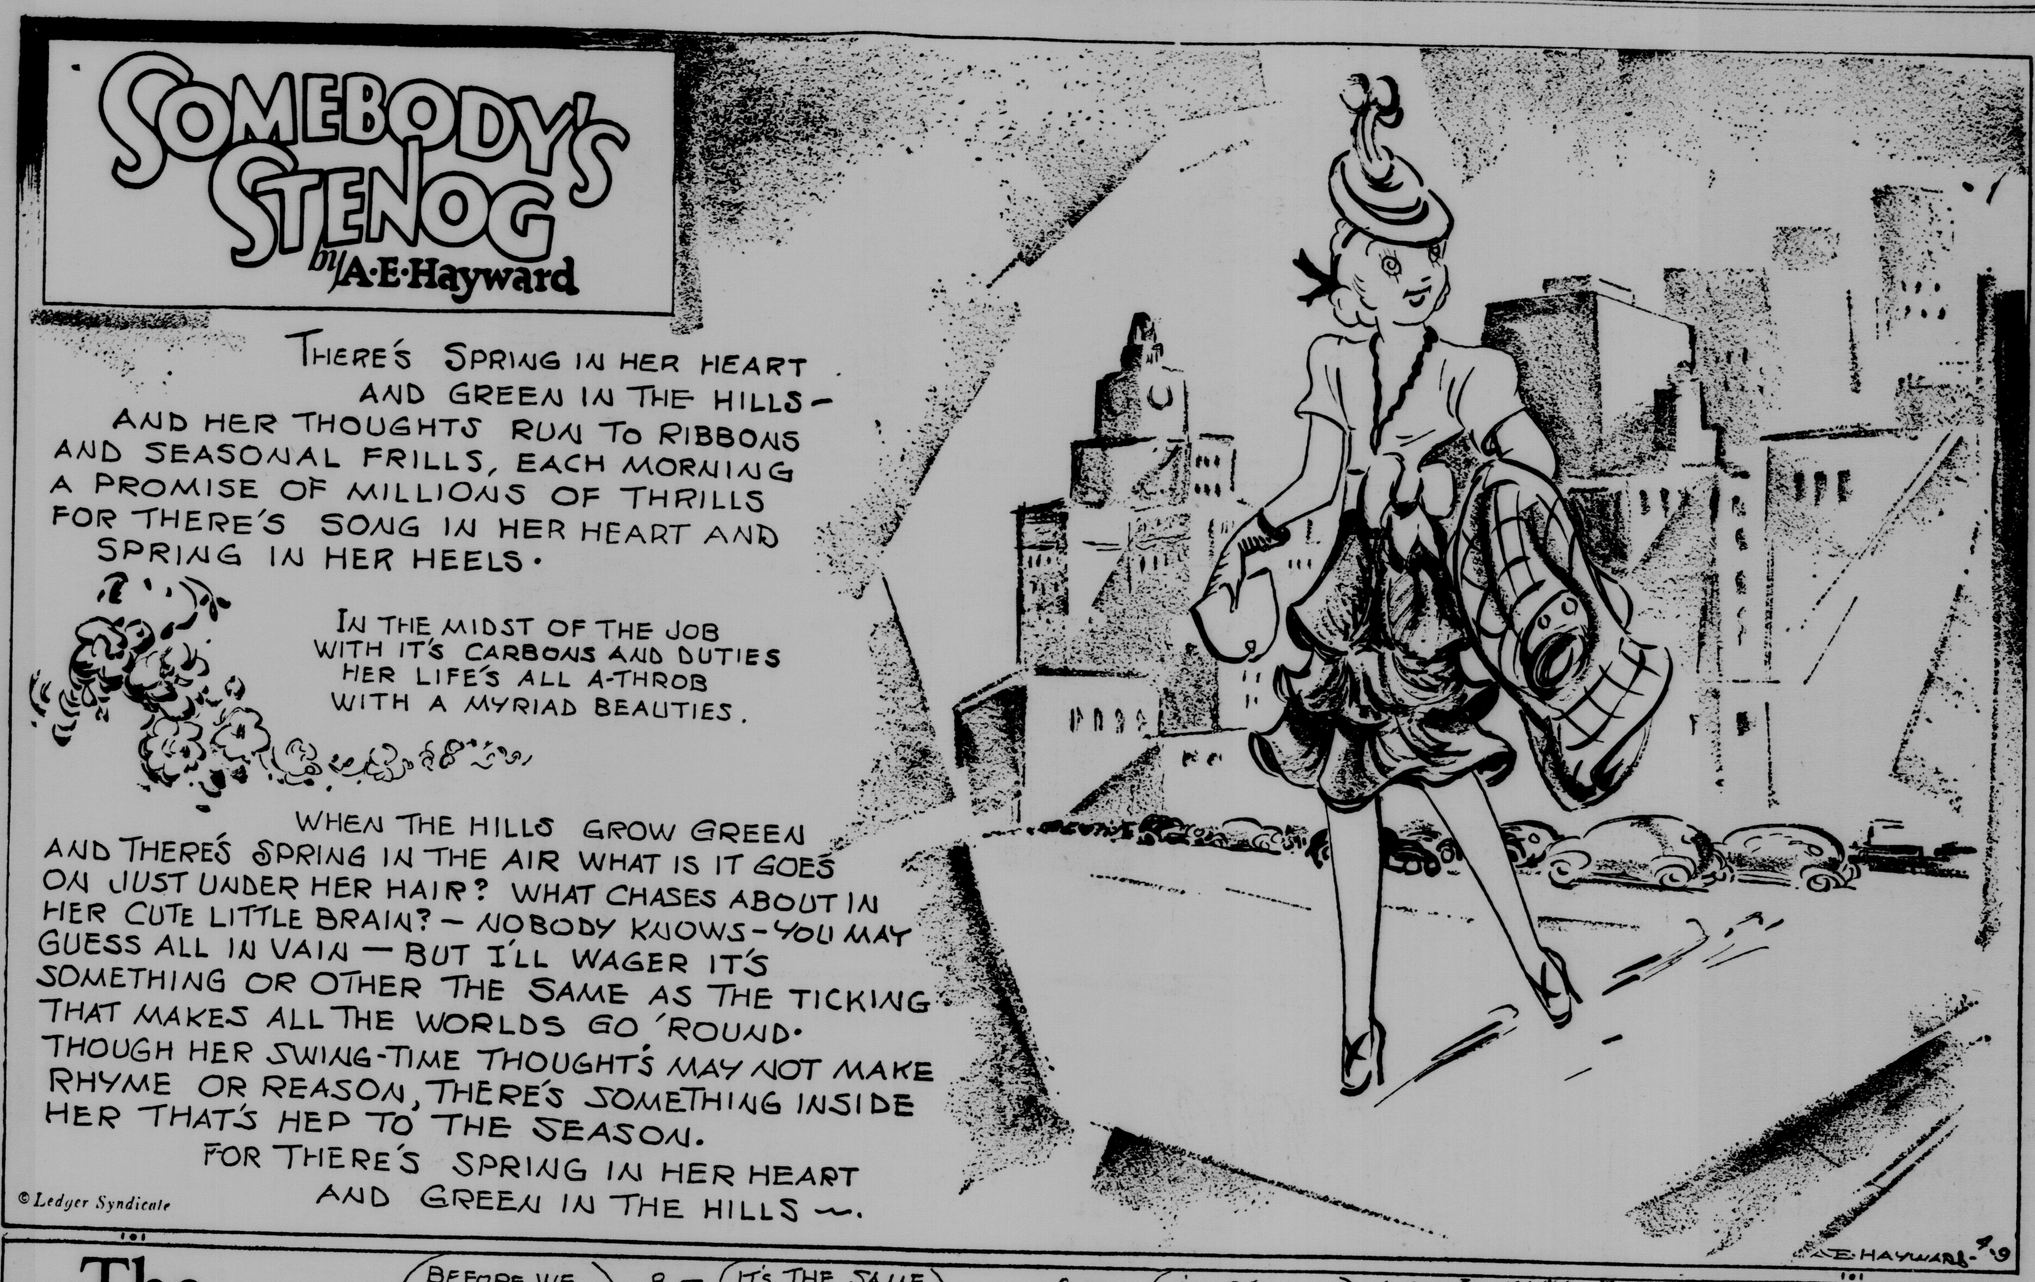

During the intermission Theresa Tutt played a piano solo, and two dance numbers, ballet and military tap, were given by a group of girls who had been trained by Miss Clara Hord, teacher of physical education. Miss L. Viola Kinney, music teacher at the school, accompanied.

Announcements were made by Prof. C. C. Hubbard, principal of Lincoln school, concerning the appearance of the Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Octette the night of April 12, the concert to be given by the Sedalia Symphony orchestra Tuesday night, April 25, and the Lincoln high school senior prom, Friday night, April 14 at convention hall, Liberty park.

Music By Orchestra

Music for the style show was furnished by the Lincoln High school orchestra, led by Marcel Moore, who also sang a solo during one of the scenes, and under the direction of Prof L. A. Boggess, leader of the school orchestra and band.

Included in the large audience were a number of white citizens who expressed their appreciation of the program.

Failing Blood Circulation in Legs Comes With Age; Requires Care

Among the chief difficulties associated with growing old are changes in the circulation of the blood in the legs. These changes may be due to many causes.

First there may be hardening of the walls of the blood vessels, which diminishes their caliber and makes circulation of the blood more difficult.

Second, a small piece may break off a blood clot somewhere in the body and flow in the blood stream until it reaches a vessel from which there is no outlet. Here it will block a vessel and interfere with the flow of blood.

Third, a clot may form in any of the blood vessels due to inflammation in the wall or from some other cause, and this also will interfere seriously with circulation.

In most cases the reduction of the flow of blood is gradual. However, just as soon as a lack of a sufficient supply of blood begins, serious changes take place in the tissues. The tissues feel cold because it is the blood that keeps them warm. Next, the lack of nutrition for the tissues may cause them to break down so that simple ulcers or even severe gangrene may occur.

When ever there is a lack of blood supply in a muscle, it is likely to be subjected to cramp-like pains. Many times the first sign that we get that something is wrong with the circulation of the blood in the legs is the frequent occurence of such cramp-like pains. The doctor by making a careful investigation can determine the extent to which the circulation of the blood is adequate and can then provide suitable treatment.

One of the most important steps is, of course, to conserve the heat of the body. People who have trouble with the circulation of the blood should wear clothing that is warm and not constricting. The hands and feet particularly must be kept warm. Loose fitting gauntlets are warmer than gloves with separate fingers. Sometimes two pairs of medium weight stockings are warmer than one thick pair. Such people must avoid exposure to cold and especially to cold water.

In general it is believed that smoking is not good for people with circulatory disturbances in the legs.

Pain is relieved by warmth and by rest. Sometimes elevation of the legs is of the greatest importance in giving them additional rest, additional circulation and freedom from pain.

There are six "don'ts" and two "dos" which every one of these people should keep in mind:

1. Don't allow your feet to get cold.
2. Don't stand up too long.
3. Don't walk too far, or on rough ground.
4. Don't get into crowds, where your feet may be trampled on.
5. Don't wear boots or shoes that pinch, or that have nails coming through the sole.
6. Don't pare your corns deeply, and don't put on corn-plasters. (If you can afford it, go to a good chiropodist.)
7. Do wash your feet daily with tepid water; dry with a soft towel, especially between the toes.
8. Do cut the toe-nails straight, and well away from the quick.

Modern science has developed several methods of improving the blood supply, including the new devices which provide an alternating vacuum, and also a number of excellent exercises involving alternating raising and lowering of the legs.

Cranium Crackers

Can you select the one correct name or term from brackets following each of the statements?

1. A haloid substance is one resembling (salt, sugar, cinnamon, pepper.)
2. Another name for Mesopotamia is (Nippon, Eritrea, Iraq, Iran).
3. Imogen is the heroine of Shakespeare's ("Measure for Measure," "Hamlet," "Cymbeline," "All's Well That Ends Well").
4. "The Wasp of Twickenham" was (Thomas Dryden, Lord Byron, Sir Walter Scott, Alexander Pope).

Nothing Thrills Children Like Discovering A Touch Of Glamor In Their Dad

By Olive Roberts Barton

All children love to dramatize their parents. That is, they get a thrill seeing them act a part other than that of everyday folk doing the same old things in the same old way.

The following is an illustration.

Father had been very busy for months. He came home too late to clean up for dinner, slept most of the evening, and had no time to keep up his contacts with his family. Overworked and nervous, he had been a little short on temper. All of which worried mother considerably, for the children were getting out of hand and she could no longer depend on his co-operation.

Then he had to go away on a business trip. He was gone for two weeks. At last came a telegram saying he was flying home and would arrive at six in the morning.

Suddenly mother had an idea. The boys were airplane crazy. They had never been in one or known anyone who had. So she got them up at five, drove out to the field, and in the rays of the rising sun, there came the great silver ship out of nowhere.

Daddy was on that ship, riding the sky like some mythical hero. Their eyes were beyond describing. Mother could hardly bear the emotional flood that filled her own heart. How, then must the boys feel, she thought?

The ship circled, straightened, and landed right before them. The first one out was father.

He looked so different, too. Not like the man who came home to find fault and then fell asleep over his paper. He was now one who crisply told the porter about his bag, and then crossed the space between them with the sure stride of the conqueror. The boys were almost too awed to speak to him. It was like meeting a king.

Of course he had not changed. He was the same good old dad he had always been. But something heretofore hidden to his children came through in those first moments of meeting, and it was good for them to see it.

Lohengrin might not have impressed Elsa half as much if he had gotten off a street car, instead of a swan. And so it was with these boys. They beheld another picture of their father, framed in glowing colors.

Whatever it is, children are always proud to see their parents do something different. Let us call them "glamor parents."

What Was the Toll Of Sherman's March?

SEVENTY-FIVE years after Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman undertook his famous march through the south to break the backbone of the Confederacy, the historians are still arguing over the exact toll of this expedition.

Sherman estimated the damage in Savannah alone at $100,000,000, but his figures appear to be a rough guess. Generally, it is believed that Sherman cost the south $200,000,000 in that march which leveled towns and cities, mopped up military supplies on every hand.

Sherman set out to make the south howl and he did just that. So he made his name a symbol of hate. He wrote to his wife, for instance, at the end of May, 1864, that he knew the country swarmed with thousands "who would shoot me and thank their God they had slain a monster." Yet, Sherman insisted, he had tried to be more kindly disposed to the south than any other general.

This was war, he reminded his critics, after all. So he had marched with his 60,000 men to cut off the source of supplies to the Confederates, to make the south feel the real weight of the battle. If that meant destruction, well—history could make the most of it.

Capture Wife Of Slain Outlaw

KANSAS CITY, April 8—(AP)—Estelle Dickson, 16, blonde sharpshooter whose outlaw husband, Benny Dickson, was shot down Thursday night at St. Louis by federal agents was arrested on a downtown street today docile, unarmed and alone.

Surrounded by federal agents at 10th and Walnut streets in the midst of a noon crowd of Easter shoppers, Mrs. Dickson meekly accompanied her captors a block to the FBI division offices. Hurrying shoppers were unaware of the arrest.

E. P. Guinane, in charge of the FBI here, said Mrs. Dickson would be arraigned Monday before United States Commissioner Charles H. Thompson on a grand jury indictment charging her with transportation of a stolen automobile. Decision would be made later, he said, whether she would be taken to Detroit to face kidnapping charges filed against her and Dickson.

Mrs. Dickson, whose home is Topeka, also is accused of participating with Dickson in the $2,187 robbery of the Corn Exchange Bank at Elkton, S. D., last August 25, and the $17,500 robbery of the Northwest Security National Bank, Brookings, S. D., last October 31.

Guinane declined to speculate whether Mrs. Dickson was nearby when her husband was killed at St. Louis or whether she might have been trying to return to her home at Topeka. He indicated federal agents had not completed questioning her.

Acquaintances of Benny and Estelle said, the young girl had become an expert shot with pistol and rifle since marrying him a year ago and could perform amazing feats with either.

Steal March To Combat Disease

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 8.—(AP)—Missouri farmers and veterinarians will steal a march on sleeping sickness this spring with a series of meetings to lay plans for combating the disease that killed 4,500 horses and mules in the state last year.

Representatives from counties will meet with county agents in sectional gatherings during the next few weeks, and veterinarians will meet later in the day to make plans for vaccinating animals, Dr. Andrew Uren of the University of Missouri agicultural extension service said.

First of the scheduled meetings will be Monday at Canton. Dates of the others are April 11, Edina; April 13, Milan; April 17, Maryville; April 18, Cameron; April 18, Platte City; April 20, Carrollton; April 21, Kirksville; April 25, Fulton; April 26, Mexico; April 27, Bowling Green and April 28, St. Charles.

May 1, Boonville; May 2, Warrensburg; May 3, Nevada; May 4, Hermitage; May 5, Camdenton; May 8, Springfield; May 9, Neosho; May 10, Cabool; May 11, Rolla and May 12, Mt. Sterling.

Sleeping sickness epidemics usually begin in northern Missouri counties about July 1 and reach the southern counties about August 15. Dr. Uren said. Vaccination in May or June is recommended.

K. C. Hot Spots Shut For Good

KANSAS CITY, April 8.—(AP)—Two of Kansas City's "hot spots" where clothes were a minor item with the entertainers, were ordered permanently closed Friday by court action.

Permanent injunctions, closing the Winnie Winkle and Chesterfield clubs, were entered by Judge T. J. Seehorn in circuit court.

The injunctions were issued on application of the attorney-general's office as part of the drive here on alleged liquor law violations.

The writs were granted on application of state liquor inspectors.

The petitions asking for the permanent closing charged both clubs "encouraged lewd and lascivious shows by female impersonators" and sold liquor after legal closing hours.

Judge Seehorn granted the injunctions on the ground both places were "common nuisances."

Today's court action was not contested by Pete Graco, operator of the Winnie Winkle, or Gus Gargotta, operator of the Chesterfield. Neither of the operators or their attorneys appeared in court.

J. F. Alleback, an assistant Attorney general, presented the applications for the injunction. Both places had been closed under temporary injunctions.

Meeting Is Held By A Pig Club

The South Kentucky Avenue Pig club met at the home of Morhis Johns, Wednesday, April 5th.

Donald Decker the president called the meeting to order and led us in the club pledge. Donald Decker displayed and demonstrated the use of the self-feeder, and Glenn Michaelis gave a report on worming pigs. Morris Johns gave a report on growing ration for pigs.

The meeting was then turned over to our leader. Parke Green, who instructed us on the good points to look for when purchasing our pig.

A social hour followed at which time the hostess. Mrs. A. W. Johns served delicious refreshments. The meeting was adjorned with the next meeting to be held at the home of Junior Leuck.

Students From Here to Tour With Choir

Of the thirty-six Central College, Fayette, Mo., students chosen to make the A Cappella Choir trip this year, two are from Sedalia. Miss Frances Brunkhorst, soprano, and Morris Thomas, baritone, will leave Fayette with the choir on Sunday, April 16, for a ten-day concert tour of east and southeast Missouri. Under the direction of Professor Luther T. Spayde, past president of the Missouri Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, they will broadcast from Station KSD in St. Louis at one o'clock, Saturday afternoon, April 22.
